MRS. ANNIS ON STAND

She Testifies Merely to Death of Her Husband—Model

VICTIM POINTED OUT

Witness Testifies That He Designated Annis' Boat
for Defendant.

FLUSHING, L. I., Dec. 17.—The possibility of Mrs. Claudia Hains, wife of Capt. Peter C. Hains, going on the stand during the trial of Thornton Jenkins Hains for the murder of William E. Annis, is one of the interesting phases of the case now being considered.

Mrs. Hains, who is with her parents in Massachusetts, is quoted in dispatches as having said that she is willing to appear as a witness if her testimony is absolutely necessary to save her husband and his brother from the electric chair. She also said that in case false statements are made about her or her mother, she will insist on testifying to clear herself.

As Justice Crane has ruled that the family troubles of Capt. Hains are not to be brought into the present trial, it is possible that the attorneys for the defense will have the wife testify in an effort to find a way to dodge the court's ruling. Mrs. Hains has said several times that she will not be "Evelyn Thawed," and is certain that she will not try to aid her husband if her character is assailed.

Physicians Tell of Wounds.
Several physicians were examined this morning. They told of the wounds inflicted by the bullets fired by Capt. Hains. The testimony showed that there were about twenty wounds made by the seven bullets, several of which went through a limb and the body, two. None of the physicians called as witnesses was present when Annis died, so Mrs. Annis was called to the stand. She testified that she was the wife of Annis, and was present in the hospital when he died.

"That is all," said the District Attorney.

Attorney McIntyre for the defense immediately objected, saying that the witness should tell all she knew about the crime. Justice Crane ruled that this was not necessary at this time, and McIntyre said he had no questions to ask.

Talked With the Brothers.
Charles A. Birchfield, a member of the Bayview Yacht Club, testified that at the club on the afternoon of Aug. 15 he saw two men and a woman talking. One of the men was the defendant, Thornton J. Hains, who engaged him in conversation about real estate. While they were talking Thornton Hains' companion came and called the defendant aside. The witness said he next saw the defendant and the other man walking toward the dock. Later the pair stood near the string piece.

"There was quite a little gathering at the dock," Mr. Birchfield testified. "There was Mrs. Annis, Miss Rockwell and Mrs. Nesbitt, and I think Mr. Funkhouser. I went down to the dock and talked with the defendant. He asked me if Annis had a boat and I said he had. He wanted to know which one it was, and I pointed out Annis' boat coming down the bay. He asked me if Annis had come in before the race and I said that he did.

Ordered to Stand Back.
Mr. Birchfield described the shooting, after which he said:

"The defendant pointed the gun at me and said: 'Stand back; he knows what he is doing. If you don't you'll get the same thing.'

"The firing ceased after the gun was pointed at me. Annis then came from around the mast, and whether he touched the float I do not know, but he fell into the water and two men pulled him out."

Mr. Birchfield said that Mrs. Annis came down the runway screaming. At the bottom of the runway she turned and ran back up the runway.

Birchfield said that he saw John Tonnig, the boatman, run up and seize Capt. Hains by the arm.

"The defendant rushed over to Tonnig," he said. "I do not know what was said. They pulled Annis out of the water and I went to call a physician."

Mr. Birchfield was given a long cross-examination by Mr. McIntyre. He said he attended an informal meeting of club members in court, after the coroner's verdict. The subject of legal aid in prosecuting the case was gone over.

Mr. Andrews testified that Thornton Hains pointed a revolver at him. Did you see him do that?

"I did not."

Andrews testified that Hains said:

"I wonder who 'Pal' might be, anyway," mused the Water Rates Clerk.

"There's another question puzzles me more than that," said the Street Department Draftsman.

"What's that?"

"I want to know where Fish M. Adams was when they were having that election on the levee yesterday."

Today's weather forecast: Rain and cooler tonight; Friday rain, probably changing to snow; much colder; variable winds, becoming strongly northerly Friday; minimum temperature tonight, 40 degrees.

ATTEMPT WILL BE MADE TO BREAK ST. LOUIS CLUB SLATE

Some of the Members Will Try to Defeat Three of the Candidates.

Two tickets have been nominated in the St. Louis club to be voted on by the members at the annual election Saturday. One was selected by the "nominating committee" appointed by the present officers. The other, known as the "members' ticket," was placed in the field by members who did not like some of the selections of the committee.

The principal contests, according to members, will be for the secretaryship and one place on the Board of Directors. The adherents of the members' ticket say they want to defeat Thomas H. Wright for secretary, Franklin Perkins for third vice-president and Max Kotany for a place on the Board of Governors.

The committee's ticket is:
For president, Rolla Wells; for first vice-president, J. E. Smith; for second vice-president, Henry Miller; for treasurer, Wallace Delafield; for secretary, Thomas H. Wright; and for directors, Max Kotany and D. R. Francis Jr.

The members' ticket is:
For president, Rolla Wells; for first vice-president, S. M. Dodd; for second vice-president, J. E. Smith; for third vice-president, Henry Miller; for treasurer, Wallace Delafield; for secretary, L. T. Tunc, and for directors, Alfred Clifford and Edward Hadden.

The "howling crowd" wants A. M. Finley for second vice-president.

SIX IN FAMILY
DIE AND POLICE
HOLD A WOMAN

Charge Is Arson, but Explanation of Poisoning Cases Is Wanted.

BOSTON, Dec. 17.—With the case of Herman Billik and the Vrsal family fresh in their memory, the police of Boston today are investigating the six mysterious deaths in the family of Mary Kelleher, who is held here on the charge of arson.

Since the arrest of the woman a week ago, it has been learned that six members of her family have died since 1906. They are her husband, two sisters and three children.

Each carried life insurance. From close to $500, the insurance collected after the death of the husband, Stephen, the amounts range down to a paltry $25 for which the life of 3-year-old Mary Kelleher was insured.

The police are anxious to have explained why Stephen Kelleher, the husband, died of ptomaine poisoning, said to have been contracted at a banquet, and why Katherine, the 12-year-old child, died of ptomaine poisoning, after a field day given by the Holy Ghost Hospital, when no other person at those places was affected.

GIRL KILLED BY CAR, BUT SAVES BOY COMPANION

Five-Year-Old Child Crushed Under Wheels on United Railways Loop.

FENDER DID NOT WORK

Mother, Attracted by Crowd, Hurries to Scene and Carries Body Home.

As she stood on the porch of her home, waiting for her 4-year-old daughter, Viola, to return from a nearby grocery store, Mrs. Martha Hoefl of 2344 Belt avenue saw her little girl go down beneath the fender of a Cass avenue car at St. Louis and Belt avenues, as it turned a corner at a terrific clip, Thursday.

When the mother reached the scene of the accident a scissors grinder, who had dragged the little form out from beneath the truck and then supported her to her home.

Those who saw the little girl just before the car struck her, believe that she may have sacrificed her life in trying to save that of 34-year-old Eddie Matthews of 2823 Semple avenue, who was holding her hand just before the accident occurred. The boy was unhurt.

Started to Grocery Store.
Viola and Eddie started from the Hoefl home to a grocery store at 10:30 a. m. Eight minutes later the little girl was dead.

The spot where she was run down is on a curve of the loop at the end of the Cass avenue line. When cars are behind time they sometimes take this loop at high speed, but members of the crew say that car 2352, which ran over Viola, was not running fast.

Viola and Eddie had been to the store and were returning home. The car, swinging around the curve, was upon them before they had time to clear the track. Viola was nearest the car. She either threw Eddie clear of the rails or he was hurled aside by the impact of her body when the car struck her.

Fender Fails to Work.
The fender failed to pick her up. She passed under it and the trucks cut off her right arm and right leg. She was dragged 10 feet before the car was stopped.

Horrified passengers and neighbors were gathering about the car when Viola's grief-stricken mother pushed her way through the crowd. The body was just being lifted from beneath the trucks.

Mrs. Hoefl pushed aside the men who held it. Clinging to it in her arms she kissed the little white, palidrawn face repeatedly. Not listening to those who thought to console or help her, she half ran, half staggered to her home with her burden.

Edward Wallace, the motorman, and Sam Bateman, the conductor, were not arrested.

BABY UNINJURED
AFTER HEADLONG
JUMP OF 45 FEET

Takes Tumble in Answer to Salutation From Street, Lands on Lumber Pile.

Leo Connelly, 11-months-old son of Mrs. Bridget Connelly of 2909 Cass avenue, will be doubly lucky when he laughs and coos at sight of his Christmas tree. He will be lucky to have a tree and lucky to be alive to enjoy it.

Dr. W. A. Dillon of 2903 Cass avenue says that he cannot understand how the child escaped injury when he plunged headlong from the third-story porch of his home Wednesday afternoon and landed on a pile of lumber.

Leo's sister, Annie, 13 years old, was holding him. They were watching carpenters at work in the yard. One of the men waved his hand at Leo.

The baby was so delighted that he jumped right out of Annie's arms and went toppling over the porch railing, 45 feet to the ground.

Bounced From Telephone Wire.
Half way down the baby struck a telephone wire. He bounced from it and turned over and over.

When the workmen went to pick him up, they thought he was dead, but he regained consciousness while he was being carried to the house. Dr. Dillon found that there was a slight bruise on his right side and small cut on his scalp.

"That would seem to indicate that the little fellow landed on his head," said the doctor. "Yet there is no fracture or concussion. No bones are broken and he is practically unhurt. I never heard of anything like it."

SHAMS DEATH AND FLEES; ARREST ENDS
LONG MASQUERADEPOLICEMAN HERO IN A CHILDREN'S BACKLOT DRAMA

Girl's Pet Chicken Bitten by Girl's Pet Dog—Death Penalty Demanded.

Secretary McCarty answered the phone when a girl called up Chief Creasy's office Wednesday afternoon.

"Send a policeman to 2621 Virginia avenue at once," said the girl.

"What's the trouble?" asked McCarty.

"I want a dog killed," was the response.

"What did the dog do?"

"He bit one of my chickens."

"Was it a pet chicken?"

"Well, I should think it was. It was so much of a pet that we would not eat it ourselves, much less allow a dog to eat it."

"Where is the dog now?"

"Dog Locked in Shed."

"I've got him locked up in our shed. Send the policeman."

Policeman Egan was detailed to kill the dog.

Egan was on his way to the house when he was stopped by a little girl who was crying bitterly.

"Oh, Mr. Policeman, I've lost my little pet dog," sobbed the child. "Please, won't you try to find him? He's such a dear little dog."

"I'm too busy now to help you," said Egan. "I'm on my way to kill a dog. Wait until I come back."

"I'll go with you," said the child, then you can help me find my dog."

At 2621 Virginia avenue Egan found a little girl standing guard at the shed.

"He's in here," she said when she saw the policeman. "Be sure you kill him."

Egan cautiously opened the door and was peering into the shadowed interior when a streak of black and white shot forth. In an instant the dog was in the arms of its little mistress. She cried for joy.

The policeman and the other little girl, wide-eyed, watched the dog leap to the ground and run about his mistress in dizzy circles.

"Is that your dog?" asked the little girl whose chicken had been bitten.

"Yes, and I just love him."

Egan had his revolver out of the holster.

"Shall I kill him?" asked the policeman.

Grain Dealer Thought Drowned
Three Years Ago Found Under Assumed Name in Texas.

PRINCETON, Ind., Dec. 17.—Face to face with exposures involving a shortage of $125,000 in his accounts, Henry E. Agar, secretary and treasurer of the Princeton Elevator Co. and one of the leading business men of this part of the State, insured his life for $27,000, shammed death by accidental drowning, falling from his steamboat which had a secret port hole, fled while his body was sought in the Wabash River and for ten months lived under an assumed name as one of the leading citizens of San Benito, Tex.

His strange masquerade ended yesterday dramatically as it was begun, when he was recognized by a former friend from Princeton and turned over to the State Rangers. He will be held pending the arrival of officers from Indiana, who at the instance of the life insurance company, have been seeking him since he disappeared on the night of Jan. 23, 1907, with even his wife and children mourning him as dead.

The plot that Agar laid for his disappearance and subsequent double life was carried out so carefully that the detectives who have worked on the case for more than two years were nearly convinced that the man was dead. One insurance company had given up the fight and had paid a $3000 policy to the wife. The others were receiving payment in the form of a life insurance policy.

For months previous to his disappearance Agar had been giving much time to the buying of corn in Princeton, Fort Branch, Francis, Oakland City, all in Indiana, and Mount Carmel, Ill. He made frequent trips to these towns, and made frequent comment when he purchased the steamer Lafayette, Capt. Harrington master, and constructed an expensive barge for his river trade. Neither was it considered extraordinary that he often accompanied Capt. Harrington on his trips up and down the river.

On the night of Jan. 23, 1907, the steamer Lafayette, with the barge in tow, was en route from Mount Carmel to Princeton.

The river was at flood stage and there was a fierce gale blowing. Clad in a heavy overcoat, closely buttoned, Agar was standing at the extreme end of the barge, apparently staring straight ahead into the night. His back was toward Capt. Harrington, who was at the wheel. The other members of the crew had taken refuge from the storm below deck, and Capt. Harrington was the only eye witness to the events of the next few moments.

Received Captains of Boat.
From his place at the wheel in the pilot-house, Capt. Harrington saw Agar turn suddenly and move across the barge. He appeared to stumble over a sack of corn. Capt. Harrington heard a cry and saw what appeared to be a man's body plunge from the side of the barge into the water.

The alarm, "steamer overboard!" was given, and the steamer came to a stop as quickly as possible. Boats were put out, but the night was so dark that a quest for a body was considered hopeless and was soon abandoned. It was believed impossible that Agar, dead as he was, could have escaped alive from the flood-swollen river, and the captain and crew continued to Princeton confident that Agar had perished.

The circumstantial evidence was so strong that Agar's friends and relatives accepted his death as a fact, and moved for the collection of his life insurance.

The investigation that resulted in Agar's arrest and confession to the Texas authorities clears practically every detail of the mystery that surrounded his disappearance. Fearing prosecution for the discrepancy in his business accounts, he planned not only to provide for his own safety, but to leave his family in comfort financially through his life insurance.

To carry out his scheme he constructed a special barge, ostensibly to be used in his grain traffic along the Wabash River, but which was equipped with a secret port hole, large enough to conceal a man of his physique. This, with a sack of corn, was the only mechanical contrivance he used in his strange plot.

Went to Seeming Death While Fierce Storm Swept the River

Clarence Durr, 34, of 1112 Elliot avenue fell from the fourth floor to the bottom of the freight elevator shaft at the store of the Globe Shoe and Clothing Co. Thursday. He was dead when an ambulance arrived.

Durr was employed as a bundle boy. Two other boys, Louis Goerman and Henry Wright, say that they saw him picking at the lock of the elevator door and trying to open it.

They say that they warned him to stay away from the door.

An instant later he disappeared down the shaft.

It is supposed he was looking into the well for the freight carriage.

Robert Tiers and Paul Bradley, engineers in the basement, saw the body strike the bottom of the shaft.

He was still breathing when they ran to him, but he lived only a few minutes.

The elevator is provided with a conductor and employees of the store have strict instructions not to attempt to use it unless the conductor is running it.

Mrs. Mand Durr, the boy's mother, was in the store when he was killed. She is employed there in the dress goods department.

HOUSE CALLS FOR ROOSEVELT'S PROOF OF ITS CORRUPTION

Unanimously Asks Him for Evidence That Its Members Object to Being Investigated.

ACTION RECOMMENDED BY THE CENSURE COMMITTEE

Representatives Now Await Reply While Senate, After Heated Speeches, Plans Move to Show Its Anger At "Insults" in Message.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—By unanimous vote the House of Representatives today called on President Roosevelt for any proof he has that members of Congress are corrupt and asking him whether, if he had such proof, he had taken steps to have the guilty congressmen prosecuted.

These demands are the opening shot of the reply of the House to the President's declaration that Congress in curtailing the use of the secret service was chiefly concerned in preventing investigation of its members. The resolution adopted also asked him for any proof he had of this charge made in his special message.

The resolution was adopted within half an hour after it was reported by the special committee, of which Representative Perkins of New York is chairman, appointed last week to recommend action in reply to the President's statements regarding the secret service, which congressmen consider insulting.

The test of the resolution recommended by the committee and adopted follows:

Resolved, That the President be requested to transmit to the House any evidence upon which he based his statements that the 'chief argument in favor of the provision was that the congressmen did not themselves wish to be investigated by secret-service men,' and also to transmit to the House any evidence connecting any member of the House of Representatives of the Sixtieth Congress with corrupt action in his official capacity and to inform the House whether he has instituted proceedings for the punishment of any such individual by the courts or has reported any such alleged delinquency to the House of Representatives.

In reporting the resolution, Mr. Perkins said it was recommended unanimously by the special committee, and said that as soon as the President should send any information in his possession the committee would make another report for the consideration of the House.

Representative John Sharp Williams expressed the hope that the resolution would be adopted promptly and practically without debate.

Mr. Williams, who is a member of the Perkins committee, said the committee would impartially report upon "this seemingly unprovoked and unjust reflection on the legislative branch of the Government."

"So far as the committee knows," he said, "there is not a scintilla of evidence to support that statement by the President. The committee has thought it would be fair to the President to give him further opportunity to produce testimony if he has any."

Awaiting Public Opinion.
Such procedure, he continued, would allow the country, which, he said, is the "master of both of us," to exercise judgment in the matter. The speaker then resumed his seat.

Senators Culler, Bailey, Tillman and McLean, all Democrats, called the President's words regarding the secret service "wanton, gross and deliberate insults."

The resolution unanimously passed in the Senate after these angry speeches, was the combined work of Senator Alford, Republican leader, and Senator Culler, the Democratic leader.

The Appropriations Committee, which was directed by it to recommend the committee's action, is one of the strongest committees in the Senate, with Senator Hale as chairman.

It is expected that the House will wait until the President replies before taking further action. It is believed that he will answer in a special message. For several days he has been in conference frequently with secret service chiefs, who have carried bundles of reports to the White House.

The President's friends have said that he had a lot of information about members of Congress, and have given warnings that Congress had better think twice before giving him a chance to spring it.

BOY FALLS FOUR STORIES

WAR DECLARED
BY VENEZUELA
AGAINST DUTCH

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Venezuela has declared war against Holland, according to unofficial advice received at the State Department today. The news is contained in a dispatch from Puzos, Colombia. He states that the Colombian Minister of Foreign Affairs has received the following telegram from Caracas, dated Dec. 16:

"In view of the hostilities commenced and the capture by the blockade of a Venezuelan vessel, the kind of the Government of Venezuela, after consulting extraordinary means, has decided to declare war against the Kingdom of the Netherlands."

MOVE TO SHOW HOW RIVER CAN CARRY FREIGHT

Business Men's League Inducing Merchants to Give Boats a Trial.

TO CHECK CRITICISM

"No Freight Car Can Compete With 10,000-Ton Barge," Says Smith.

Through the efforts of James R. Smith, president of the Business Men's League, and other members of that organization, St. Louis business men are responding to a plan to show conclusively the value of making the Mississippi navigable for a heavy class of steam vessels.

Though Mr. Smith denied Thursday a report published in a morning paper that he was interested in any company which planned to put a line of boats on the river, he admitted that he is asking shippers to guarantee a sufficient amount of business to induce one of the steamship companies now operating on the Mississippi to extend the service from St. Louis to New Orleans. At present no boats ply between this city and the Gulf of Mexico. When the freight has been promised, arrangements will be made with one of the shipping companies to handle it.

Says Business Will Pay.

"There can be no doubt that such business between St. Louis and New Orleans will pay," said Mr. Smith, "if we can get deep water. We want to silence those critics who ask us why we do not use the waterway we have."

"James J. Hill expressed it very well when he said that no 1000-ton barge could ever compete with a freight car, and no freight car could ever compete with a 10,000-ton barge. We can't run 10,000-ton barges on the Mississippi when we sometimes have only four feet of water between St. Louis and Cairo. If we had 14 feet the year round and knew the channel would be kept open, such barges could be operated with profit.

"This scheme is a part of our campaign for a deep waterway. The railroads will be glad to get rid of certain classes of freight on which they make little profit.

Problem Solved in Europe.

"In Europe they have solved this question. Practically all raw material is hauled by water, and practically all finished products by rail. That is as it should be, and as it will be one day, in the United States.

"The business men are responding to our requests for freight to go by water and I am of the opinion that before long we will be in a position to make arrangements with one of the steamship companies to put on the necessary number of boats between St. Louis and New Orleans.

"We have an up-river business, and we have boats plying between St. Louis and Memphis, Cape Girardeau, up the Tennessee River and up the Illinois River. We want deep water to the gulf, and when we get it there will be plenty of business for large barges."

JUDGE IN HAINS CASE EXCLUDES MODEL OF WHARF

He was managing this affair. Did you hear him say that?"

"No, sir."

Justice Crane this morning announced that he had decided to exclude the model of the dock and boat prepared by the defense. He declared that it was inaccurate and out of proportion, and would give the jury a false impression.

John Tinning, a boatman, who was a witness of the shooting, is missing, and Attorney McIntyre accuses the State of conspiring at his disappearance. He says that Tinning rushed to Capt. Hains with a boat hook and that Thornton Hains then drew a revolver to protect his brother. McIntyre says he has vainly sought Tinning for three weeks.

Prosecutor Darrin says he has not heard from Tinning for three months, but he believes the boatman is in Sweden.

earthed a motive for his desire to disappear, as well as clues to the methods he had taken to carry out his desire.

Secret Pathole Is Discovered.

First came the discovery of the short-ago. It was found that a discrepancy of $125,000 existed in Agar's accounts, and that for some time the man had been a heavy loser through unlucky speculations in the grain market.

Next came the mute evidence of the barge on which he stood on the night of his disappearance.

The secret pathole was near the spot where Capt. Harrington saw him fall. Suspicion of the part this secret compartment played in his disappearance was strengthened when a sack of corn was fished from the river where the crew of the Lafayette had sought Agar's body.

Then it was accepted as practically certain that when Agar fell to the floor of the barge while Harrington was watching, he did not trip accidentally, but that he dropped into the porthole, and, as he disappeared, he screamed, threw his hat in the river and cast a sack of corn overboard to represent his body. Then he drew the cover over the porthole, remained hidden there until the steamer docked, and, in the excitement attending the captain's report that his employer had been drowned, he escaped and made his way out of the State. Agar's hat was later found in the river.

While the authorities were dragging the river for his body, and while his wife and children were suing to collect his life insurance, Agar was making his way to Texas, where he was to begin his life anew.

Reports frequently came to Princeton that Agar had been seen in various towns in Indiana, but the detectives who were running down every possible clue were never able to strike his trail. Reaching the town of San Benito, Agar adopted the name of H. A. Conner and embarked in business with the capital he had saved from the wreck of his affairs in Princeton.

He was successful. Within the 10 months he had managed to build up a reputation of one of the leading business men of San Benito. He took an active interest in local affairs, and there was no suspicion, apparently, that he had a "past." So far as is known he never communicated with his wife and children.

Meets Old Friend on Street.

The mask was torn off without warning. F. S. Smith of Princeton, who had known Agar well when the latter was a prosperous Indiana business man, was making a tour of the Southwest. His itinerary included San Benito.

The two men met face to face on the street. Recognition was instantaneous. There was not even time for a second flight. Smith notified the local authorities, who arrested Agar and turned him over to Capt. Ross of the State Rangers.

Agar confessed his identity and expressed his willingness to return to Indiana without requisition papers. Capt. Ross telegraphed to Princeton, and Chief of Police Skelton, Prosecuting Attorney McGary and an attorney representing the insurance companies were left today for Texas to bring the prisoner back to his former home.

The specific charge on which Agar will return to Princeton is the forgery of the name of H. D. McGary on a $2000 note on the American National Bank of this city. Other charges undoubtedly will be brought against him.

An effort was made by the insurance companies to show that Capt. Harrington's steps and made every effort to trap him into an admission that Agar was alive, but without success.

Mysterious Check Received.

It was alleged that Harrington received a check for $100 from Texas shortly after Agar disappeared, but Harrington insisted that he did not know why the check was sent to him.

When one of the insurance cases came to trial a handwriting expert testified that the signature on the check resembled Agar's writing, but this testimony was combated by the argument of opposing counsel that the check was sent to Harrington merely as a part of the detectives' scheme to trap him into a statement.

The judge's verdict favored Mrs. Agar, indicating that it had been proven to the satisfaction of the jury that her husband was dead.

In 1906 Agar was a representative in the State Legislature from Gibson County and received much notoriety through the introduction of a bill to tax bachelors and a bill making it a misdemeanor either to give or accept a treat in a saloon.

MAN WHO DISTURBED WIFE FINED $500 AND LECTURED

Andel Said That Judge Pollard's Talk Hurt Worse Than the Fine.

In addition to fining Harry Andel of 1312 North Grand avenue $500 for disturbing the peace of his wife Judge Pollard of the Dayton Street Police Court lectured him for fully half an hour. Andel said after it was over that the lecture was worse than the fine.

Andel has been separated from his wife, Josephine, for two months. In order to get money to pay the funeral expenses of her child she went to work in a nickelodeon at 611 Franklin avenue. She told Judge Pollard that Andel went there and raised such a disturbance that she had to go home. She said he threatened to kill her.

As Andel drove west in a buggy he bumped into a street car and was arrested. Mrs. Andel testified that her mother gave Andel $500 to start in business after his marriage five years ago, and that he failed. Mrs. Andel now lives with her mother at 1118 South Eighth street.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 17.—

After an interval of 32 years, Turkey today entered upon a second attempt at constitutional government with the inauguration in Constantinople of the new Parliament elected under the constitution promulgated by the Sultan in July of this year.

The Sultan opened Parliament in person with elaborate ceremony fashioned after the customs of older similar exercises. The new assembly met in the same chamber where the short-lived assembly of 1876 convened, a modest building facing the square of St. Sofia.

The opening was one of the most impressive in the history of the political world. The varied costumes of the delegates, some in flowing silk robes and others in the fashionable frock coat, formed a gorgeous and multi-colored picture never before witnessed in a legislative gathering in Europe.

Albanians, Syrians and many others were present, while Greeks, Armenians and Bulgars represented the Christian nationalities. Members from Jerusalem and Mecca rubbed shoulders with their colleagues from the European provinces and the far-off Kurdish, Armenian and Arab districts on the confines of the Indian Ocean.

So far as can be judged from surface indications the new Parliament has entered upon its duties with a united determination to carry out successfully the object of the assembly.

MURPHY BUTTONS MISSING WHEN SURGICAL MEN MEET

At the final session Thursday of the twenty-first annual convention of the Southern Surgical and Gynecological Association, papers were read by Dr. H. A. Whitacre of Cincinnati, Dr. W. B. Coley, New York; Dr. M. C. McGannon, Nashville; Dr. William P. Carr, Washington; Dr. J. N. Baker, Montgomery; Dr. Rufus B. Hall, Cincinnati; Dr. Henry T. Byford, Chicago; Dr. A. Willis, Richmond; Dr. R. S. Cathart, Charleston, S. C.; Dr. C. L. Bonfield, Cincinnati, and Dr. J. E. Cannady of Charleston, W. Va.

Dr. J. B. Murphy of Chicago, inventor of the famous "Murphy button," by which two ends of the bowels are joined, is getting lots of amusement out of his discovery.

"Recently," said Dr. Murphy, "I was a guest at a business men's banquet in Chicago. The toastmaster apologized because the banquet was not, as he said, wearing the Murphy button. He declared moreover that he had searched in vain at all the department and hardware stores, none of which had any in stock, nor had they ever heard of it."

Dr. John Young Brown of St. Louis was elected first vice-president, Dr. Stuart McGuire of Richmond, Va., was elected president. The other officers are: Dr. R. S. Cathart of Charleston, S. C., second vice-president, and Dr. William S. Goldsmith of Atlanta, Ga., treasurer.

It was decided to hold the next meeting of the association, at Hot Springs, Va.

The visiting surgeons were entertained at a banquet Wednesday night at the Planters Hotel, at which Dr. Paul Young Brown acted as toastmaster.

The election of officers for the ensuing year will be held late Thursday afternoon.

Bad Breath From Teeth and Stomach

Quickly Killed By Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges.

Free Trial Package By Mail.

The teeth secrete much of the decay from food and the acids from the mouth cause such decay to assume a gaseous state which quickly makes horrible bad breath.

Charcoal is one of the strongest absorbers known, and mixed with the saliva of the mouth it quickly takes away the bad effects of mouth decay, acids and odors.

Charcoal will absorb one hundred times its volume in gases. Charcoal is used at sea to keep water sweet. A little placed in a pan keeps a refrigerator sweet and free from decaying odors, also a sleeping room or foul cellar or sink.

John Turnbull of Glasgow, Scotland, a famous chemist, covered two dead dogs with charcoal and placed them in his study without any covering whatever beyond charcoal. In six months the bones of the dogs remained. And the flesh was entirely gone, yet no odor whatever had permeated the study during the decay of the animals, notwithstanding the weather was highly conducive to rapid decay.

Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are made from willow charcoal and honey. Willow is the most porous charcoal obtainable and therefore absorbs quickly and in greater quantity than other charcoal. It contains carbon, hydrogen, oxygen and nitrogen.

Charcoal from the willow is free from grit. Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges cure diarrhea and constipation and stop foul breath from stomach or mouth. They contain nothing but charcoal and honey.

Eat two or three little lozenges after each meal and at bed time and you will soon stop all foul gases from arising. You will sweeten your breath and aid your digestion, blood and liver.

Every druggist carries Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges in stock, price 25 cents, or send us your name and address and we will send you a trial package by mail free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 200 South Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

At The Vandervoort Jewelry Store—Quality

GO where you will, prettier Holiday merchandise you will not find than at this popular department.

There is a full representation of inexpensive, good Jewelry, but there is also a wonderful collection of exclusive, high-class novelties—the sort of designs that you don't find elsewhere—gathered in Europe for this department.

Our Solid Gold and Diamond Jewelry Section amazes all who see it.

One or Two Novelties That Interest

Lot of Dresser or Desk Clocks, with sterling silver; etched, engraved or plain French gray dials; these little clocks are perfect timekeepers and only $2.00 upwards.

The novelty Vanity Case in sterling silver; handsomely enameled, is a clever gift; it is about the size of a watch and contains mirror and powder puffs; many shapes and designs; priced from $5.00 up.

Gummetal Mesh Bags, with patent link that will not pull apart; frame plain, hand sewn gold laid or sterling silver applied; $2.00 upwards.

Leather-lined Gummetal Purses; very appropriate for elderly women; prices begin at $9.50.

Our showing of Sterling Silver Mesh Bags is most extensive; some have plain, others engraved frames. We show the new Dorothy Bag in sterling silver.

Look On The Sixth Floor "Salon of Decorative Art"

For anything artistic for the home—Marbles, Bronzes, Brasses, Art Pottery, Pictures, Antique Furniture, etc.

A WONDERFUL floor, this; an educational influence, of value from the standpoint alone of its suggestions of interior decorations.

If your search is for an artistic unusual gift you will save time by beginning on this floor, for the search will doubtless end here.

In the Vase and Bric-a-Brac Section we show an exceptional collection. Among others: Beautiful Copenhagen ware, from $2.50 to $100.00 a piece.

Quaint Holland ware, from $2.00 to $30.00 a piece.

The dainty Dresden ware, from $9.00 to $235.00 a piece.

The plain but artistic Teeco ware, from 50c to $30.00.

Richly tinted Bookwood ware, $1.00 to $100.00 a piece.

Fine, unusual Austrian pieces, 50c to $85.00 a piece.

Delicate Italian Bric-a-Brac, 50c to $35.00.

An unusually fine assortment of Bronzes in reproductions, Busts, Groups and Single Figure classical subjects, from $4.00 to $5.50.

The China Floor Abounds in Wonderful Gift Opportunities
LITERALLY, everything shown here is a Gift article, and no small part of the great display is very much under price.

B. NUGENT & BRO. DRY GOODS CO., Broadway, Washington Avenue and St. Charles Street.

INSANE AUNT OF HARRY THAW DIES IN AN ASYLUM, AGED 78

Defense of White's Slayer Partially Based on Her Mental State.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 17.—Harriet A. Thaw, 78 years old, aunt of Harry K. Thaw, died on Tuesday night at the Friends Asylum for the Insane in Frankfort, a suburb.

The fact that she was an inmate of the asylum for the insane was used in the second trial of Harry Thaw for the murder of Stanford White when a defense of insanity was advanced in behalf of Thaw.

The woman had been an inmate of the asylum for several years, but the fact was concealed from the public until it was necessary to have it known in order to save the life of the unfortunate woman's nephew.

OHIO SAUSAGE 57 FEET LONG Elongated Ground Pig Will Be Served Christmas.

WOOSTER, O., Dec. 17.—Wishing to entertain some friends and at the same time outdo anyone else in the way of playing host, Joseph Trozel of this city hit upon a unique scheme. He decided to hold a "wurstfest," but it was not to be anything like the old-time "fest." Accordingly, when making the sausage for the occasion, he decided not to cut it off in the usual lengths, but "let it grow."

With the aid of two assistants, he welded ground young pig together all day and at night he had one complete sausage 57 feet in length. He has bought a mammoth kettle, and at Christmas time will invite a number of friends and slice off a few feet for each.

DIES AFTER TREATMENT BY CHRISTIAN SCIENCE HEALER

After being treated eight weeks by a Christian Science practitioner, Emil Schaaf died in a boarding house at 3322 South Broadway. He had an abscess of the kidney. The coroner will hold an inquest.

Schaaf and his wife led a nomadic life on the Mississippi River, going from place to place in a houseboat. They fished where the fish were most plentiful, and managed to make a living by marketing their catches.

When he was stricken with disease Schaaf took some medicine, prescribed by a physician, but it did him no good. He then suggested to his wife that they come to St. Louis so he could have Christian Science treatment.

G. W. Barrett of 2349 A South Grand avenue, a Christian Science practitioner, was called. Schaaf took no medicine and on days when the practitioner could not call he received absent treatment.

DOG KILLED IN WOMAN'S FIGHT AGAINST HOGS

Swine Neighbors Are Porcine Non Grata With Mrs. Margaret Dempsey.

ON GUARD WITH A GUN

Garbage Eaters on Chesley Island Will Move to Mainland if Law Allows.

Mrs. Margaret Dempsey, who for 36 years has conducted a farm on a tract of river front land between Jefferson Barracks and the Quarantine Hospital, says "pigs is pigs" and that she will not permit the hogs of Chesley Island to invade the sanctity of her vine and fig tree.

The garbage eating porkers will be porcine non grata to her even if their owner, J. A. Worthington, does give them a bath every day and feed them in a concrete floored dining room.

Worthington, who is about to jump from Chesley Island and is looking for a place to light, is preparing to start what he calls a "model hog farm" on property adjoining the Dempsey home.

Mrs. Dempsey, who will have to move if this plan is carried out, is standing guard with a shotgun to prevent the men engaged in laying out the hog ranch from encroaching on her land.

Dog Killed in Skirmish.

There has been desultory skirmishing for several weeks and hostilities were renewed Monday when two of Worthington's men were shot at. They returned the fire and killed Mrs. Dempsey's dog.

In the Clayton Circuit Court Wednesday afternoon Judge McKilhinney set aside a temporary restraining order against Worthington which had been issued at the instance of William Winheim Sr., Henry Decker and Albert Bussen, farmers in the Quarantine neighborhood.

Worthington testified that it is his intention to restrain 1000 hogs from Chesley Island to the Missouri shore and feed them on refuse from St. Louis hotels and restaurants. He insisted that such refuse should not be classed as garbage.

Judge McKilhinney in setting aside the temporary restraining order said that the injunction suit will be heard on its merits Jan. 1.

Has Leased Dempsey Farm.

"I have leased practically all of the Dempsey farm for a hog ranch," said Worthington, who is looking for a place to light, is preparing to start what he calls a "model hog farm" on property adjoining the Dempsey home.

Mrs. Dempsey, who will have to move if this plan is carried out, is standing guard with a shotgun to prevent the men engaged in laying out the hog ranch from encroaching on her land.

SPLIT TICKET SEEMS WINNER IN LEEVE ELECTION

Contest Is Close and Official Count Is Necessary to Determine Victors.

The result of the election to select five members of the Board of Trustees for the East Side Levee and Sanitary District will not be definitely known until an official count of the votes is made by the St. Clair County Court at Belleville.

The unofficial returns indicate the election of H. D. Sexton, C. T. Jones and C. L. Gray on the Taxpayers' ticket, and G. L. Tarleton and Thomas F. Leydon on the Home Rule ticket.

The new commissioners will have jurisdiction over the construction of a levee from Nameoki to East Carondelet, costing $5,000,000. The levee district embraces East St. Louis, Madison, Venice, Granite City, Cahokia, Centerville and Nameoki.

The Vote Is Split.

In East St. Louis the Taxpayers' candidates, according to unofficial returns, received the following vote: H. D. Sexton, 468; C. T. Jones, 460; C. L. Gray, 464; Fred Kohl, 370, and W. A. W. Knecht, 386.

The Home Rule candidates received the following vote: Robert Conway, 400; G. L. Tarleton, 410; J. M. Chamberlain, 386; Thomas Leydon, 343; F. L. Garasche, 348.

The Home Rule ticket swept Madison, of which Garasche is Mayor, by a vote of 500 to 37 for the Taxpayers' candidates. Centerville Township gave the Home Rule ticket a majority of 23, and Brooklyn gave the same candidates a majority of 10.

The taxpayers' candidates won out in Venice, Granite City and Nameoki by an average majority of 280. The ticket carried Cahokia by 58 and Lonsdowne by 36. Outside of East St. Louis the Home Rule candidates carried the district by an average majority of 241, but the majorities of three of the taxpayers' candidates in East St. Louis overcame this lead.

The vote is so close that an official count will be necessary to determine whether Conway or Leydon is elected on the home rule ticket. On the unofficial returns Leydon has a slight advantage.

AUTO PLUNGES INTO OPEN DRAW KILLING THREE

Storm in Milwaukee Prevented Chauffeur From Seeing Bridge Was Turned.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 17.—Two men were drowned and a third so badly injured that he died, when the auto of A. J. Soliday, proprietor of the Soliday Automobile Co., dashed into the Milwaukee River off an open draw-bridge early today.

O. Z. Bartlett, a well-known member of the Board of Trade, and Albert Kunz, an employee of the automobile company, were drowned. Soliday, who was driving the machine, managed to swim to an abutment after having been carried down the river. He received a deep cut in the head and died shortly after being taken to a hospital. He was picked up by the steamer Iowa, for which the draw had been opened. Kunz's body has not been recovered. A heavy storm made it impossible to see that the draw was open.

ROOSEVELT REFUSES TO GIVE JOB TO GROSSCUP'S BROTHER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—President Roosevelt today told a delegation of West Virginia congressmen and friends that they were "wasting time" to recommend to him the brother of Judge Peter Grosscup for appointment as Collector of Internal Revenue.

Sensators Scott and Elkins and Representative Gaines had recommended Fred Paul Grosscup to the President for the position.

Headaches

are brain signals that your system is in some way disorganized and unless the cause of the trouble is removed they will become more and more frequent, and gradually increase both in duration and intensity. The sympathetic nerves are weakened by the repeated attacks, and the remedy finds an easy lodgment whenever the bodily and mental conditions favor its return.

On the first sign of headache you should at once take

Beecham's Pills

Complete recovery from sick headache, bilious headache, nervous headache, throbbing headache speedily follows the use of these famous pills. They settle the stomach, stimulate the liver, act mildly on the bowels, improve the blood and quiet the nerves. The tonic and strengthening properties of Beecham's Pills build up the bodily health and fortify the system against subsequent attacks.

For all headaches, disorders of the stomach and nerves, Beecham's Pills are

LAUGH CALLED BEST COMMENT ON CANAL MESSAGE

Press Is Unanimous in Condemnation of President Roosevelt's Attack on the World.

Newspapers throughout the country, regardless of their politics, continue unanimous condemnation of President Roosevelt's special message to Congress of Tuesday.

His action is variously described as a "disgraceful scene unparalleled," a "storm of low invectives and cheap billingsgate," "undignified and blameworthy," "assinine and unstatesmanlike." The Cleveland News, a strong Roosevelt paper and the leading independent Republican organ of Ohio, publishes a column and a half open letter to the President, telling him that his "admirable constituents" fear that he is making "himself and them ridiculous." The News says the message contains the President's "strongest and choicest selection of epithets," and declares that

Following are editorials from various newspapers discussing the message:

Shameless, Says Atlanta Journal.
ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 17.—The Atlanta Journal says, under the heading, "Roosevelt's Shameless Exhibition:"
The history of the executive office of the United States does not furnish a parallel for the disgraceful scene which President Roosevelt has precipitated by sending to Congress a special message in which he assails an American newspaper, its editor and a multitude of correspondents and contributors with a storm of low invective and cheap billingsgate which outrival the sordid contentions of a navvite.

He has made himself the butt of ridicule, he has confirmed the charges that he seeks to conduct the executive office of a representative Government after the manner of an Eastern despotism; he has humiliated the American people and shamed them in the eyes of the world abroad. He has made this canal inquiry imperative, but nothing that may develop can wipe out the reproach he has brought upon the exalted office he occupies.

"An Unparalleled Outbreak," INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 17.—The News says:

It is difficult to characterize fully the latest outbreak of the President without resorting to the use of language as undignified and blameworthy as that which puts the President's utterance in a class by itself in the official literature of the high office he holds.

Whatever provocation Mr. Roosevelt may have felt pricking his soul, nothing could justify or much extenuate the torrent of invective and violence which he poured out in a state paper upon the heads of private citizens.

It is quite impossible to think of any of Mr. Roosevelt's long line of distinguished predecessors that could have possibly so far forgotten the dignities and decorum of his exalted position as to transmit to Congress a message in any way comparable with that of Tuesday.

Roosevelt Paper Scores Him.
CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 17.—The Cleveland News, which cordially has supported the policies of President Roosevelt, and is the leading independent Republican paper of this State, published a column and a half editorial open letter to the President deprecating the tone of his special message. Among other things the editorial says:

Vehemently you have declared the complete innocence of yourself and your friends. But asseveration, no matter how violent, is not proof. Instead of supplying proof, in the first instance, you devoted yourself to denunciation of the accusers.

In your special message to the Congress you are even more intemperate than you were in the Fouke letter. You proceed to hurl at Mr. Pulitzer your strongest and choicest selection of epithets and threaten him with all the power of the Government.

The thing that worries your millions of admiring constituents, who do not doubt your integrity, even after your astonishing protestation of it, is the fear that you are making yourself and them ridiculous. The News wishes most sincerely that no ill-advised or impetuous act of your part should result in the affair becoming the most unpleasant chapter in your great career. At intervals, therefore, an earnest learner the whole truth of this particular matter, the country will be favored with less of vindictiveness and vituperation and be left free to remember your presidency by what is best in you rather than by what is worst.

Laughter Natural Comment.
CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—The Inter Ocean says:

It is said with sincere regret, but it must be said, that the laughter with which the message was greeted in the House and Senate is a natural and necessary commentary upon the President's furious message to Congress on Tuesday.

The President's opinion that "the Government" has been "libeled" and should "prosecute" as such is, of course, just the opinion of a man so angry that he forgets everything that he should remember. The Constitution defines treason, and neither the Constitution nor the laws recognize the existence of any such crime as "lese majesty."

The President's threats merely show what Mr. Roosevelt would like to do to destroy the liberty of the press—if he could. Fortunately we still have courts which decide according to the law regardless of personal opinions.

Neither the President's abusive indignation nor resentment, due to the root of the matter. The indignation excites laughter either of ridicule or cynical, and in both cases deplorable, though inevitable.

The real question is what was done with the people's money—who got it and why? Only the truth and the whole truth will answer this question. Also the truth will hurt none but those who deserve to be hurt.

Government Libel Impossible.
NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—The New York Globe says:

Every schoolboy knows that the Federal Government, as such, can never prosecute for libel—that the states have exclusive jurisdiction over this offense; and every schoolboy knows that it is preposterous to identify an attack against the Government as an attack on any officer of the Government, no matter how prominent.

In 1788 the sensitive Federalists, smarting under unjust attacks, passed the sedition act, providing punishment for uttering false and scandalous charges against Congress or the President. Hamilton begged and pleaded against the enactment of this law, for he foresaw the consequences. And from the day the bill became law the Federal party went slowly down to ruin.

The notion that the Federal Government could be libeled was repudiated and from the day that the sedition law went off the books no effort has been made to revive it.

It is scarcely conceivable that the President, an historian, is ignorant of one of the most elementary facts of American history, or that, as a publicist, he is unaware of one of the most elementary distinctions between the scope of the Federal and State governments.

"Assinine," Says Auburn Citizen.
AUBURN, N. Y., Dec. 17.—The Auburn Citizen says:

Of all the remarkable outbreaks which have come from His Majesty, Theodore Roosevelt, his deliverance to Congress Tuesday is by all odds the most remarkable, intemperate, unstatesmanlike, insouciant and assinine. It makes every American citizen feel that March 4, when Roosevelt retires from the White House, cannot come too quickly.

That the President of the United States should resort to a special message to Congress to vent his spleen on a newspaper editor seems incredible. That he should call on Congress to attempt to punish the editor for "lese majesty" evidences an alarming mental condition, more than a mere misapprehension of the Constitution, which guarantees a free and untrammelled press.

Like Stubbard Employers.
READING, Pa., Dec. 17.—The Reading Telegram says:

Roosevelt's "nothing-to-investigate" message on the New York World-

Panama Canal charges sounds like the "nothing-to-investigate" attitude of employers of striking labor. His reference to the "known character" of a reputable publisher will lend no particular glamor to the closing days of his administration.

Bryan Condemns Roosevelt.
LINCOLN, Neb., Dec. 17.—Commenting on the trouble between President Roosevelt and Joseph Pulitzer of the New York World, William J. Bryan comes out strongly on the side of the newspaper and warns the President that he cannot muzzle the press.

Under the heading "President Oversteps the Limit," Mr. Bryan will say in next week's issue of his Commoner:

President Roosevelt has sent to Congress a message which announces a new and dangerous doctrine. It is the duty of every publisher and every believer in free speech and a free press to resent the President's attempt to use the Government to terrorize those who would criticize the action of public officials.

No official can claim exemption from criticism merely because he is an official, and no act of the Government is so sacred that the humble citizen may not express an adverse opinion upon it.

It is a matter of little consequence whether the charges made by the World are true or false; that can be determined by suit at law in the ordinary way.

But it is a matter of great importance that every editor and every other individual shall be free to express his opinion on any subject connected with public affairs. . . . Mr. Pulitzer is on solid ground when he resists the President's attempt to convert newspaper criticism of officials into criticism against the Government itself.

The President's message is indefensible in so far as it asserts the right of the Government to prosecute the World or Mr. Pulitzer, and he will find that he has overstepped the limits of his authority if he attempts to use the Attorney-General's office in the way that he has proposed. The President is not the Government; a criticism of him is not a criticism of the Government.

Lincoln News Expects "Fuss."
LINCOLN, Neb., Dec. 17.—The News (Rep.) says:

The importance into which the newspaper press of the country has grown is emphasized by the fact that it has been made the subject at least of two special messages to Congress from the President of the United States. Some editors, being men, are sometimes of a scrappy and audacious disposition, and this description fits Mr. Pulitzer of the New York World, who has been picked upon by the President as the man whom he is really after. Mr. Roosevelt, besides being President and in a position where his word is of equal authority with that of the editor of a great metropolitan daily, is of a similar disposition, and we may, therefore, look for a real fusy time before the matter is ended.

BOY PLAYED HOOKEY TO EARN MONEY FOR COAT FOR MOTHER

Youth Said Christmas Present Was Bought When Arraigned in Court.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 17.—Howard Long, aged 12, was one of the delinquents in the juvenile court today, but he was ready to take his medicine like a man. He had been staying away from school for the greater part of a month.

"Why have you not gone to school?" asked Judge Hoffheimer.

"I wanted to earn some money to buy Christmas presents with," replied the boy.

"Have you earned any money?"

"Yes, sir, and saved it. I got a new coat for my mother."

Then the boy told how he had heard his mother say that she wanted a new coat and that she didn't see how she could afford one. He said that he had worked selling papers until he earned enough to buy a coat and that he had it ready for Christmas morning. Under the circumstances the judge decided to take more time to consider the case and he let the boy go with a promise that he return to school.

GIRL WHO ELOPED WITH HER PASTOR FAILS TO GET LEGACY

Grandmother Willing to Help Her and Children, but Not the Minister.

HEMPSTEAD, L. I., Dec. 17.—An attempt was made here in behalf of Floretta Whaley, who about two years ago eloped with Jere Knobe Cooke, former pastor of St. George's Episcopal Church, to obtain from her grandmother, Mrs. Keshiah Whaley, a legacy of $5000 left her by her father.

W. Emmerson, a lawyer of Hartford, Conn., and a one-time friend of Cooke, visited Mrs. Whaley and made known that she had been retained to collect the legacy, but was informed that by the terms of the will of Miss Whaley's father the $5000 could only revert to her upon the death of her grandfather, to whom the will gave free use of the money during her life time.

Mrs. Whaley declared that she entertained none but the most kindly feeling toward her granddaughter and that she stood ready to welcome her and her two children, but she refused to give her financial assistance on the ground that by doing so she might be helping Cooke.

ATHLETIC WOMEN CAPTURE HIGHWAYMAN. THEN LOSE HIM

Negro Snatches Pocketbook, but Is Severely Beaten Before He Makes Escape.

Mrs. Celia Kritzer, 22 years old and athletic, and her sister, Mrs. Falmor of 222 Warren street, caught a negro thug when he snatched Mrs. Kritzer's purse in front of 916 High street early Wednesday night.

When Mrs. Kritzer screamed for help her sister thought she had been stabbed by the robber, and loosed her grip.

The man escaped. The police of the Carr Street Station arrested one suspect, but the women failed to identify him.

The women were going home from a shopping trip when the negro stepped from a hallway and snatched Mrs. Kritzer's purse, containing $2. She grasped his arm and held on, while Mrs. Falmor beat the man's head with a package of books.

They got the negro down on the sidewalk before he succeeded in freeing himself.

FIND WOMAN WHO READS BIBLE AND LIKES THEATER. GET $2500

Husband Also Asks for Apprehension of Man Who Disappeared Same Day.

Here is a way to earn a $2500 reward. Find a blue-eyed woman, 22 years old, who is "very fond of amusements, likes to attend theaters, reads the Bible and is religiously inclined, wears diamonds, opals, rubies and amethysts, has a mole on her left cheek and is well supplied with money."

Local detectives have been asked to look for Mrs. Bertha May Stone, whose husband, W. A. Stone of Uniontown, Pa., who supplies the description and offers the reward. She disappeared from her home there Dec. 2.

The reward also calls for the apprehension of Emory Martin, 30 years old, a Spanish war veteran, who left Uniontown the same day.

MAN WHO EARNS $6 A WEEK NEED NOT SUPPORT HIS WIFE

New York Judge Says Girl Who Marries Recklessly Must Take Chances.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—That a man earning only $6 a week is not compelled to support his wife was a decision by Judge Foster in General Sessions today.

Leaser Glassberg married two years ago on $6 a week. His wife, Annie, could not live on his salary and they separated two months ago. He refused to give her $2 a week and she sued.

In deciding the case Judge Foster said:

"Now, if a woman chooses to embark in matrimony with a man whose earning capacity is only $6, she must take her chances of getting her support. This rushing into matrimony may appeal to the President of the United States, but it does not to one who weighs the evidence."

"I am not going to encourage this crime of matrimony by making a husband whose earnings are $6 a week go out and steal to support a wife. I will not allow her even $2 a week."

GUIDED BY MRS. GARY'S PICTURE INSANE MAN FOLLOWS WOMAN

Armed With a Club He Says He Wants to Kill Her and Is Arrested.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—An Italian, who is under observation, confined in the psychopathic ward at Bellevue Hospital, is believed to have a fancied grievance against Mrs. E. H. Gary, wife of the head of the United States Steel Corporation.

The man was arrested last night after following Miss Mary Bouser in a Harlem department store. In one hand he held a club and in the other a newspaper clipping with a picture of Mrs. Gary. He looked alternately at the picture and at Miss Bouser, and when she became frightened and asked him what he wanted, the man replied, "To kill you."

Miss Bouser does not greatly resemble Mrs. Gary. A false moustache, gum shoes, three shirts and two vests were found on the prisoner. He gave the name of Augustus Del Bazono, and said he lived in East One Hundred and Thirtieth street.

BURGLARS BREAK INTO CHURCH AND STEAL CHILDREN'S PENNIES

Contribution Box Broken Open in St. Mark's Evangelical Lutheran and $1.50 Taken.

Burglars went to a lot of trouble to get 150 pennies out of the children's contribution box of the St. Mark's Evangelical Lutheran Church, at 330 Bell avenue.

They broke the windows of a basement door, and then searched through basement and vestry to the auditorium of the church. There they found the children's contribution box nailed to a post.

They broke it open and took every penny. Rev. Mosheim Rhodes, the pastor, told the police that he missed nothing else.

His Idea of a Heroine.

From Chicago News.

"What is your idea of a heroine, John?" asked the wife of his bosom, as she looked up from the novel she was reading.

"A heroine, my dear," answered John, "is a woman who could talk back, but doesn't."

- $14.50 for Misses' Winter Coats worth $25.00

FORBODE HIS CHILDREN TO WEAR HATS OR BOOTS

Revolutionist Who Was Always Kicking Dies From the Effects of a Kick.

PARIS, Dec. 17.—The revolutionary Libertad died in a Paris hospital from a kick which he received during a stormy meeting last week.

Libertad was one of the most curious figures in contemporary Paris. He wore no hat, but long, tangled hair and a long beard. Over his scarlet shirt he wore a black blouse, and he was never seen without a crutch and an enormous cane.

His language was terrific, and he rarely attended any public meeting without calling for blood.

He never allowed of his children to wear hats or boots.

On his deathbed he begged his friends not to arrange a funeral for him, as he had left his body by will to the Paris
School of Medicine.

Arrested for Bootlegging.

LEXINGTON, Tenn., Dec. 17.—Melrose
Hudson is incarcerated in the County Jail on a charge of malicious mischief and bootlegging.

RHEUMATISM PRESCRIPTION

The following prescription, while very simple and harmless, will be found to work wonders in curing lame back and all kinds of rheumatism, purifying the blood and kidneys and restoring the system to normal health and vigor. It is inexpensive considering its effectiveness, and can be mixed at home. The ingredients are well known and can be supplied by any well-stocked drug store:

"One ounce compound syrup of Sarsaparilla; one ounce Tonic compound.
These to be added to half pint of whiskey and used in tablespoonful doses before each meal and at bed time. The bottle must be shaken well each time."

Good results from this treatment are apparent after the first few doses, although it would be a mistake to discontinue its use until the health is fully recovered.

PASTOR, FATHER OF TEN, KILLED WHILE HUNTING

Shot at Rabbit and His Companion's Gun Was Discharged Accidentally.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Dec. 17.—The Rev. James L. Sullivan, pastor of a South Methodist church here, and the father of 10 children, died yesterday in an ambulance three miles north of Springfield, after being accidentally shot yesterday while hunting. Two charges of bird shot from a double-barrel gun in the hands of S. F. Jared, a merchant, entered the minister's side.

Jared was but four feet away when Mr. Sullivan fired at a rabbit. Jared turned around quickly and his gun was accidentally discharged.

An ambulance and surgeon were summoned by telephone and the wounded man was on the way home when he expired four hours after the accident.

After the doctors had examined Sullivan's wounds as he lay on a bed of leaves in the woods, they told him he could not live. Jared began to weep and the preacher said:

"Don't cry, brother Jared; you couldn't help it. It was an accident. I am not afraid to die, but what will become of my wife and children?"

Mr. Sullivan had been in the Southwest Missouri Conference since 1889, and had held charges at Marshall, Oreaville, Shiloh, Slater, Clinton, Monett and Webb
City.

Mary: Yes, sir. All but the eggs, sir.

CORONER HOLDS SUSPECT IN BOAS POISONING CASE

Handwriting Expert Testifies Electrician's Business Associate Sent Fatal Dose.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 17.—J. Walter Wilson, a supposed friend and business associate of Harry J. Boas, the young electrician who died suddenly two weeks ago after taking stomach powders which he had received through the mails, was charged with the murder of Boas by a coroner's jury last evening.

The jury returned a verdict that Boas died from strychnine poisoning and that the strychnine had been sent to him through the mails by Wilson.

Theodore Kytkas, a handwriting expert, showed to the jury enlargements of specimens of Wilson's writing and pointed out many similarities to the writing in the letter to Boas in which the poison was enclosed. The writing expert was positive the letter was written by Wilson.

Kytkas also exhibited a package of letters found among Wilson's effects, on each of which was a forged Government cancellation stamp. He pointed out that on one corner of the letter received by Boas was a smudge made by ink similar to that used in making the fraudulent cancellations upon the other letters. He then produced a section of pipe, also found in Wilson's room, with which the circle apparently had been made to complete the forged cancellation stamp.

Whipping in Relays.

Twenty of the 40 "boys" in the class are being whipped in relays. Thursday morning the eight largest ones still remained to be chastised.

The war between the teacher and the pupils began last Monday. Several of the "big boys" learned of the custom of Eastern schools which begin their Christmas holidays a week before the big feast. They demanded a similar concession, but it was denied them.

Monday Prof. Newell was surprised to note that most of the larger boys were at the schoolhouse at 8:30, half an hour before class time.

He went into the cellar to fire the furnace. When he tried to re-enter his classroom he found the door locked.

Younger Pupils Deceived.

In vain he hammered on it. Headless of his threats, the big boys prepared this morning and posted it on the front of the professor's desk.

The teacher will not be here today.

When the younger pupils straggled in and saw the sign they accepted it as official and went back home.

After remaining a prisoner in the basement for an hour the teacher broke down the door.

His classroom was empty and the notice on his desk opened his eyes to the fact that the locking of the door was not accidental, but was the result of a deep-laid plot.

He went to Arthur Smith, Fred Zeal-sar and Fred Woods, the School Board, and gave them the names of the boys whom he suspected, demanding that they be expelled.

Board Prescribes the Rod.

"No, that would be too severe," said the board. "We'll do something for you, though."

Tuesday, just after school took up, the board members drove up with a spring wagon load of switches.

They solemnly carried these into the school and laid them in front of the teacher's desk.

"Whip all of those bad boys," they said. "Don't stop till all the switches are gone. If you haven't got enough, let us know and we'll bring another load."

Since then a whipping bee has taken the place of the regular classes and the sound of "big boys" crying for mercy has drowned out the drone of industrious pupils poring over their lessons.

TEACHER BEGINS JOB OF WHIPPING THE "BIG BOYS"

Illinois Pedagogue Tackles Hazardous Undertaking by Order of the Board.

PUPILS LOCKED HIM IN

Receives Wagon Load of Switches With Instructions to Use Them.

Prof. Earl Newell, superintendent teacher and ex-officio janitor of the public school at Moro, Ill., 12 miles east of Alton has had another task added to his already long list of onerous duties.

The Village School Board has ordered him to whip all the "big boys" in his class. He has manfully started out to do it, but, as some of the "boys" are bigger than he, he may have trouble before he is through covering his assignment.

He is only 22 years old and slight of build. Several of his pupils are older than that and husky.

HONEST MAN FINDS WATCH, DECLINES REWARD FOR IT

Owner of Timepiece Says He'll "Get Even by Sending a Christmas Present."

Every time Walter Reed, engineer of the Nulker Building, looks at his $20 open-face silver watch, he rejoices in the reflection that there is one honest man, at least, in St. Louis.

He lost his timepiece on a Suburban car last Friday, and advertised in the Post-Dispatch, offering a reward for its return. Saturday a young man called to see Mr. Reed, but he was out. Monday the young man returned and handed Mr. Reed the missing watch.

"Here, I must reward you," exclaimed
Mr. Reed, but the young man declined.
"Take a dollar for your car fare," urged Mr. Reed, but the young man refused.

"He said his name was Hall, and that he was a collector for the Bell Telephone Co.," said Mr. Reed. "I'm going to get even with him, somehow—by sending him a Christmas present that he can't refuse, probably."

Later, she says, she learned that actually she and Mike were made one at that time. She now asks the Circuit Court to annul the marriage. The couple were sweethearts in Syria, the girl following the man here.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives or publishes news gathered by the Associated Press.

Gold Jewelry

There has never been but one opinion in regard to our gold jewelry, and that is that our collection is unequalled in this city. The designs are extremely graceful and novel.
New arrivals are shown in this section also. Our illustrations show a charming Brooch and beautiful Cross.

The Brooch is a pink sweet pea, the enamel beautifully shaded and the workmanship perfect. A diamond dewdrop is shown on the leaf. Price, $20.00.

The Cross is of 14k. gold with amethysts and pearls, mounted effectively, shown actual size. $21.00.

A little larger Cross of sapphires and pearls, mounted in 14k. gold, is priced at $20.00.
There are hundreds of other pretty Brooches, Scarf Pins, Hat Pins, Belt Pins, Sleeve Links, etc.

The originality and distinct "difference" of this Diamond Brooch will be quickly recognized. The circle, with graceful overlooping ribbon of diamonds, is mounted in platinum.

CONFESSES HE MURDERED GIRL, LYNCHED BY MOB

LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 17.—Elmer Hill, charged with the murder of Mamie Womack in Adair County, was dragged from the jail at Monticello, Wayne County, last night, taken four miles to Greasy Creek and there hanged to a tree.

His body was discovered there this morning by passers-by who had heard nothing of the mob's action last night.

The mob of 28 Russell County men came quietly into town on foot and proceeded to the jail. Jailer Ramsey awoke to find himself covered by six revolvers. The leader told him they did not want to make any disturbance but they had come after Hill and were going to have him. The jailer surrendered the prisoner.

Hill at first declared his innocence, then confessed when told he had only ten minutes to live.

"Yes, boys, I did kill her," he said. "How?"

"I met her on the road coming from school and tied a bandana around her neck and strangled her and took her into the woods and killed her."

Shouts of "hang him, hang him," arose from the mob and one man placed a gun against the trembling man, but was prevented from shooting. "Oh, Lord, have mercy on me, a murderer," but he dropped his head and did not utter a word.

He was placed behind a man on a mule and all proceeded in the direction of Russell County.

The news that Hill's body is now hanging to a tree about two miles out of Jamestown, 20 miles from Monticello, was received here this morning.

NET INCREASE FOR RAILWAYS

United Traction Operating Expenses Reduced This Year.

The report of the United Railways for the first eleven months of 1908 shows net earnings of $853,976, an increase over the same period of 1907 of $746. The gross earnings of 1907 exceeded those of 1908, but decreased expenses increased the net.

City Register Rogan has prepared for submission to Comptroller Player 27 accounts against the United Railways for taxes due under the ordinance assessing 1 mill per passenger. The accounts show the company owes the city $862,012.23. This does not include the October and November bills.

BOY PLAYING ON RAILROAD KILLED BY FREIGHT TRAIN

Older Brother Tried to Carry Unconscious Lad Along Track to His Home.

Claud Lutteke, 7 years old, was struck and killed by a Wabash freight train a quarter of a mile east of Ferguson Wednesday evening. The little fellow was playing on the track with his brother, Carl, 10 years old, when the train bore down on them.

Neither noticed its approach, but Carl was not on the track. Claud's head was crushed, but he lived three-quarters of an hour. The train was an extra, east-bound, and was traveling at high speed. Engineer Kincaid did not know that anyone had been struck and the train was not stopped.

Carl picked up his dying brother and staggered slowly toward Ferguson. A handcar with several section hands aboard followed the train and the boys were taken aboard and carried to their home. Dr. Charles Beier of Ferguson was called, but Claud died in a few minutes.

He was a son of Chris Lutteke, a carpenter, who has eight children. The Luttekes have lived in Ferguson for some time.

GAS COMPANY COOK COOKIES FOR COOKERS (Free Too)

Every Consumer Can Consume a Biscuit and Get a Present.

Meter: Hello, Bill.

Gas Bill: Hello, Dorando.

Meter: What do you call me Dorando?

Bill: Aren't you the champion long-distance runner?

Meter: O, I don't know.

Bill: Sure you are. You beat everybody.

C O N D U C T O R: Move forward up there.

Meter: These pay-as-you-go meter cars are—

Bill: Sh-h-h. Don't say a word. We can't afford to kick, you know. Our boss owns the cars.

Meter: Isn't it nice, what the Laclede Gaslight Co. is going to do to the—I mean for the people, this Christmas.

Bill: What's that?

Meter: Haven't you read the morning paper? Well, it will get around to you later, I guess.

Bill: Huh—up and tell me.

Meter: Well, the company is going to give presents to all users of gas.

Bill: Actually going to give something?

C O N D U C T O R: Step lively. Pass on in.

Move up to the front. Here, out out that smoking platform. No, madam, I can't give a transfer.

You should have asked for it when you paid your fare.

Meter: Yes, they're going to give things away.

Bill: What sort of things?

Meter: O, things to make people use more gas—aluminum tips and mantels. Each lady will get a cookie and a biscuit. They will be so nice that she will burn up a Christmas stocking full of gas trying to make some like them in her range at home.

Bill: I guess that will mean more work for us.

Meter: O, sure. But it will hit me first. It'll get around to you later.

"Say, did you fellows get anything about that gambling raid we had out here last night?"

"Was it an exciting affair?" Jimmie was asked.

"Gee, I should say so. Policemen Molden pounced upon the gamblers unaware and caught them with the goods."

"Was it a roulette wheel or a faro outfit?"

"No, it wasn't either of them. Wait, I'll get the report and read it to you."

Bealo had a Poor Head.

Here's the report that Jimmie read: "It herewith report that at 1:20 a. m., Patrolman Molden of this district raided a gambling game at 526 Manchester avenue. In a back room on the second floor at that number he found Joseph Salakauka, 42 years old, a laborer, and Alex Bealo, 40 years old, a laborer, both boarding at the above address, playing penechle for money. The officer knows they were playing for money, because he saw $1.35 lying on the table. Salakauka had just bought the deal after bidding 210. He had 160 trumps, 60 penechle, 60 queens and 60 deuce to meld. Bealo had a single deuce and an expression on his face that looked like a setback. Officer Molden brought the prisoners to this station. When searched Salakauka was found to be carrying a .38-caliber revolver."

"What's going to be done with those men?" Jimmie was asked.

"We're going to send them both to Police Court for gambling, and we're also going to charge the fellow with the long game with carrying a concealed weapon."

"Do you think those fellows are regular gamblers?"

"Sure. Wasn't they playing penechle for money?"

Handbook gambling is still going on in St. Louis. Only a few days ago a man committed suicide because he was $200 short in his accounts with his firm. His friends said he had lost his money "playing the ponies."

HANDSOME WIDOW IS FOUND GUILTY OF "BOOTLEGGING"

Jury Is Loathe to Do It and Tempers Verdict With Plea of Mercy for Her.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 17.—Finding Mrs. L. A. Richman of Eads, Shelby County, Tenn., guilty of "bootlegging" whisky, and at the same time asking the mercy of the Court in her behalf, was one of the features of the United States District Court. Judge McCull stated that he would think over the case and pass sentence later.

Mrs. Richman is a handsome widow and the jury seemed loath to find her guilty, but the Government made out a very strong case against her, contending that she supplies all the community with liquor.

FALL MAKES BOY LOSE SPEECH

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Dec. 17.—Garfield, the 5-year-old son of Edward T. Evans of Allentown, while at play at his home, fell and landed on his head.

Nothing was thought of the matter until last Monday, when he suddenly became speechless and has remained in that condition ever since, although perfectly conscious.

Concussion of the brain is believed to be the cause.

VIPER SKINS FORM HIS COUGH

PARIS, Dec. 17.—Leon Chass, the official viper killer in the forest of Fontainebleau, is now resting after an arduous season, in which he has killed nearly 700 snakes.

His average is 80 a year, and he has been bitten so often that he has become immune to the poison of the snake's bite.

He is known as the "Father of the Vipers," and he sleeps on a mattress made of viper's skins.

PENECHLE GAME IS RAIDED AT CRUCIAL POINT

When Jimmie Smith, the telephone boy at the Magnolia Avenue Police Station, was asked Thursday if there was any news in his bailiwick, he inquired excitedly:

"Say, did you fellows get anything about that gambling raid we had out here last night?"

"Was it an exciting affair?" Jimmie was asked.

"Gee, I should say so. Policemen Molden pounced upon the gamblers unaware and caught them with the goods."

FATHER SPOILS PROGRAM OF GIRL WHO RAN AWAY

They Meet by Chance at Union Station and Return Home Together.

When Marian Hatfield, a 16-year-old girl of Poplar Bluff, Mo., decided that she would come to St. Louis and earn her own living, she overlooked the fact that her father, who is a traveling man, sometimes has business in this city.

She ran away from home Wednesday, and reached St. Louis late in the evening. The first man she espied at Union Station was Policeman Weaver, and she was asking him where to find employment, when her father, Rudolph Hatfield, passed through the station.

Both daughter and father were surprised, and, when Hatfield had succeeded in getting the girl to tell him all about it, he departed for home with her.

ACTORS TO HELP SWELL FUND FOR CHRISTMAS POOR

Every Ticket Bought for "Burgomaster" Sunday Afternoon Means Contribution.

MORE MONEY NEEDED

Help for Post-Dispatch Festival Association Dinners Must Be Made Soon.

There will be merry times at the opening performance of "The Burgomaster" at the Garrick next Sunday afternoon, for it will be the benefit tendered by the management of the theater, through Dan Fishell, the managers of the company and the players, to the Post-Dispatch Christmas Festival Association dinner to the poor children in the Coliseum.

As a musical production "The Burgomaster" needs no introduction to St. Louis audiences as one of the most tuneful musical comedies ever written. But it is presented this season with more to recommend it than ever. There is a reason, or perhaps two or three.

One reason is that if you are one of the throng that will see it next Sunday afternoon you will be helping to give the poor children a happy Christmas.

Another reason is that the principals in the production have certain local associations.

Ruth White, the leading lady, will be remembered as the chorus girl who won the beauty prize at Delmar Garden four years ago. Since then this remarkably pretty girl has developed into a real prima donna, while at the same time developing the beauty of which she gave more than promise when she was in "The merry, merry."

Comedian a St. Louisan.

The principal comedian, Harry Hermansen, lives in St. Louis when he is at home. His home is 631 Delmar boulevard and he has hosts of friends in this city who will flock to the theater to enjoy with him the success he has won on the comic opera stage.

Hermansen's first success was in "The Telephone Girl," in which he played Hans Kix. He then created Hans Lemphauer in "The Royal Chef."

"The Burgomaster" will be the Christmas week show at the Garrick, with 65 people in the cast and an augmented orchestra. The music of the piece is extremely catchy, and there are few who have not had the "Kankaroo Chorus" running through their head at one time or another.

A large portion of the receipts of the Sunday matinee will go into the Post-Dispatch Christmas festival fund, which is another inducement to help pack the house.

Verdi Concert Dec. 31.

The concert for the benefit of the Christmas fund to be given by the Verdi Sextet at Henneman Hall, 8723 Olive street, will take place Monday night, Dec. 31. The date was erroneously given as Dec. 17 in Wednesday's notice of the concert.

The children of the Sunday School of the Carondelet Baptist Church have contributed through the efforts of C. A. Pittman, superintendent, $3.43 to the Christmas fund.

Fraternal organizations and Sunday Schools have been asked to contribute toward making the Christmas of the children of the poor less miserable than the day surely would be were it not for the big dinner in the Coliseum and the Christmas tree with its gifts for the lonely and otherwise forgotten ones.

Some of the lodges and Sunday Schools have responded with contributions, and others have promised to do so. The Post-Dispatch Christmas festival is a benefaction that should appeal to all organizations whose object is uplift, the amelioration of the sorrows of the poor and the benefit of humanity.

Only Requisite Is Hunger.

The Christmas dinner in the Coliseum is for everyone, regardless of color, creed or nationality. The only requisite is hunger, poverty and the inability to otherwise procure a share of the general joy that should accompany the day everywhere and among all classes. The Christmas Festival Association has large hopes of substantial aid from the Sunday Schools and fraternal organizations.

In addition to the other supplies sent to the sick and feeble in the Christmas dinner baskets, the committee having charge of the packing will, through the generosity of the John Wildt Evaporated Milk Co. of Highland, Ill., put into each of the 1200 baskets a can of evaporated milk for the Christmas dinner coffee or for the baby's dinner. This is an addition to the baskets that will be much appreciated in every home to which a basket will go.

The manager of the Bailey Market, Bailey and Glasgow avenues, who has contributed 500 loaves of bread to the Christmas dinner at the Coliseum, the dinner for homeless men at the Midway Luncheon, and the basket dinners to be packed at the Kinloch Building, with a full realization of the size of the contract he has undertaken, immediately wired, upon the acceptance of his offer by the Association, to Milwaukee for a carload of the best flour. It is on the way.

Seven Wagons to Haul Bread.

On the day of delivery of this free-will offering to the poor of the city seven wagons will be necessary to haul the bread from the Bailey Market ovens to where they will be used or distributed. The first bread to be distributed will be to the Kinloch Building on the morning of Dec. 24, hot from the ovens, so that it will reach the homes of the beneficiaries of the baskets fresh.

Christmas morning, before St. Louis is awake, the bread for the Coliseum and the homeless men's dinner will be delivered.

The tickets for admission to the dinner in the Coliseum Christmas day will have attached to them tickets for transportation from the homes to the hall and return. This is the generous contribution of the United Railways through Robert McCulloch, vice-president and general manager.

The committee having in charge the cooking of the thing well in hand.

country turkeys which will be cooked under the supervision of two of the most celebrated chefs in the United States—Jules Bole of the Hotel Jefferson and Edmond Perault of the Planters.

One of the most pleasing of Christmas gifts this year for the children and one in which the whole family will find great enjoyment, is the board croquet game, the invention of C. W. Nichols, a St. Louis man. It can be played by two, three or four persons with markers on a board like a croquet field, the moves being made in obedience to the numbers shown on two dice thrown alternately by the players.

PUBLIC UTILITIES TO COURT PUBLIC WITH HOME RULE

St. Louisans, It Is Said, Will Become Directors of North American Concerns.

HUTTIG IS SUGGESTED

Banker Declares He's Surprised by Talk of Him for Gas President.

Home rule for the public utility corporations of St. Louis is to be inaugurated by the North American Co., which owns and controls the United Railways Co., the Laclede Gas Light Co. and the Union Electric Light and Power Co., according to persons now closely identified with these concerns.

If plans under consideration are carried out it is probable that St. Louis men will be elected as directors and officers of the public service corporations. Some New York and Milwaukee men are now on the boards of the three corporations. The home rule plan contemplates, it is said, a campaign to win the confidence and good will of the public.

It is said by persons in a position to know that the plans have not been consummated, but it is expected that the St. Louis directors will go in at the annual elections of the corporations early in January.

Sheldon to Retire.
It is expected that Charles W. Wetmore, George R. Sheldon and E. M. Bulkley of New York and Charles R. Pfister of Milwaukee, who are now directors in the different corporations, will retire in favor of St. Louis men.

The suggestion that Charles H. Hutting, president of the Third National Bank, will be elected president of the Laclede Gaslight Co., is, Mr. Hutting says, new to him.

"The publication in a morning newspaper in the first instance, I have had of anything of the kind being contemplated by the officers and directors of the gas company," said Mr. Hutting. "In view of the fact that I meet them frequently it would be surprising if they saw fit to appoint me of their wishes through the public prints instead of in person."

Santa Claus up against it—He cannot buy the clothes that have made him famous.

Merchants Say Supply of Red Jackets, Funny Caps and Knickerbockers Is Exhausted.

Santa Claus will not be a choice product of the clothier's art in St. Louis this Christmas. He will wear any old thing he can get, and his one best reason for entering by the chimney will be that anyone seeing him in the front door would be apt to set the dog on him.

Any papa or grandpa who plans to play Kris Kringle next week had better make arrangements with some motorman to borrow the motorcar's big fur overcoat. The rest of his costume, the bright red jacket and knickerbockers, the big brass buttons and the funny cap, will have to be homemade.

The store supply of Santa Claus suits is exhausted this year. A downtown toy store, which has been headquarters for these costumes, sent in an order for two dozen suits two weeks ago, but has not heard from it. "You never can tell about those fellows," said the proprietor Thursday, referring to the wholesale house with which he had placed the order. He seemed to think the suits might be along some time in January, when they will be as time-worn as tennis rackets and straw hats.

Inquiry at clothing stores showed no way out of the difficulty. "You'll have to get a mask and whiskers and tie a sheet around you," was the helpful suggestion of a clerk in one of these establishments.

WRIGHT AMazes AERONAUTS

Sends Aeroplane Straight Up, Then Drops to Ground.

LEMANS, France, Dec. 17.—Wilbur Wright, the American aeronaut, made a remarkable flight in his aeroplane today. Instead of rising gradually, the machine shot up like a rocket to a height of 200 feet. The aeronaut then permitted it to drop about 50 feet, and then stopped the engine.

The machine glided down smoothly and gracefully, landing about three-quarters of a mile from the starting point. Members of the English Aero Club, who were present, became wildly enthusiastic over the performance.

ALICE NIELSON IS BANKRUPT

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Alice Nielson, an actress, long prominent as a comic opera singer, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy today. She gave her liabilities as $7200 and her assets as $700.

The liabilities consist of unsecured claims, among them one of $1000 for money loaned by Lee Shubert. The assets comprise wearing apparel, except for her. Miss Nielson is private life is in the Manhattan district.

A New Coat for Old Doctor Monopoly?

NOW comes the sleek monopolist To tell us with a smile St. Louis men will have control In just a little while. Of all our big utilities, Our light and car facilities, This plan he says will cure the town And ease its every ill; But a little voice keeps singing In a rhythm clear and ringing: "It's the same old doctor With the same old pill."

THE men who own most everything, They tell us with a grin That they will step right down and out And let St. Louis in, That we may find prosperity No idle boast, but verity, Good local men must now be found In a rhythm clear and ringing: "It's the same old doctor With the same old pill."

WE'll give up all control, they cry, Just manage things yourself; We'll show you that we are not out For just the sordid pelf. In handling each utility, And show us that what we have done Can be done better still; But that little voice keeps singing With a swing that's clear and ringing: "It's the same old doctor With the same old pill."

CHARGE AGAINST DEALER IN REAL ESTATE IS DISMISSED

Joseph W. Kerr Convinces Judge Taylor That His Arrest Was Without Cause.

Joseph W. Kerr, who has been in the real estate business in St. Louis for 25 years, and has an office at 902 Chestnut street, was acquitted of a charge of filing a false acknowledgment when he exhibited to Judge Wilson A. Taylor in the Court of Criminal Correction Thursday documentary evidence that Andrew and Maggie Gensert had signed the deed filed by him about which they complained and on which the charge against him was based.

Mrs. Gensert, before her marriage, bought property at 3200 Turner avenue from Kerr as agent for the Ironton (Mo.) owners, agreeing to pay $12.50 a month. The Genserts fell behind in their payments and finally executed a deed by which the property was returned to the owners and which was to be filed on a certain date if they had not made up back payments.

When the deed was filed the Genserts denied their signatures and caused Kerr's arrest last week. He said he had tried to befriend them and that his arrest was an outrage. There was no evidence to show that he had done anything wrong.

SENATOR KNOX FAVORS INQUIRY IN CANAL DEAL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Senator Knox said today that he is in favor of a congressional investigation of the Panama Canal purchase. He said that this seems to be necessary to settle the charges of corruption. According to the President's special message on the subject, Senator Knox was Attorney-General during the negotiations and the purchase was made under his advice.

DIES ON EVE OF PARTY PLANNED BY HIS FRIENDS

Charles Leibnitz, one of the best-known German residents of St. Louis, died suddenly early Thursday morning at his home, 938 Hickory street, from heart disease following a slight attack of the grip. He became ill Wednesday morning. Prior to that he had never been ill.

Mr. Leibnitz, who was 46 years old and was a director of the Galer & Strohm Millinery Co., was first vice-president of the German-American Alliance, a member of the Social Singing Society, founder of the Singing District of St. Louis, and a Mason.

Friends had planned to give him a surprise Thursday night. Twenty of them were to drop into his house one by one, and after he had found himself with a houseful of guests and without enough food to go around, a large wagon-laden with edibles was to have driven up to the door and been unloaded.

In St. Louis Twenty Years. Leibnitz was born in Leipzig, Germany, and came to St. Louis 20 years ago.

He entered the firm of Galer & Strohm as a bookkeeper and worked himself up to the directorship. He was a well-known figure in all the prominent German circles of the city, and no Saengerfest was complete without him.

His wife's maiden name was Pabitzky. He had no children or relatives in St. Louis. The funeral will be held Sunday, but the details have not been completed.

GRAND JURY RENEWS HUNT FOR FRAUD IN STONE'S CITY VOTE

Fifty-Five Residents of Fourth Ward Precinct Where Folk Got None Summoned.

The grand jury is going to find out more about the vote in the third precinct of the Fourth Ward, where the returns on the senatorial primary at the November election showed 300 ballots for Stone and not one for Folk.

Fifty-five residents of the precinct were served Thursday with notices to appear before the grand jury at its afternoon session. Many of them are expected to testify that they voted for Folk.

Detectives, canvassing the returns from the precinct, have reported that 106 names were fraudulently voted at the November election. Fraudulent registration in the Fourth Ward last fall caused 56 indictments.

GORD OF WOOD AND A JOKE. WOODEN WEDDING GIFTS

Friends Send Fuel to Couple, Then Advertise It's Free to the Poor.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Peterbush surprised them Wednesday night by sending a load of cordwood to their home at 1802 Knapp street, with the name of a donor attached to each stick, in memory of their wooden wedding, the fifth anniversary of their marriage.

After the wood had been sent to the house the men in charge of the surprise inserted an advertisement in newspapers, bidding all poor persons who were in need of fuel to apply at 1802 Knapp street for free wood Thursday morning.

MIX BEER, TOBACCO, LAUGHTER, CUT OUT PICKLES, LIVE LONG

Alton Octogenarian Announces Candidacy for Office With Prescription for Longevity.

Chew tobacco, drink beer, never eat pickles and laugh all the time and you will live to be a hundred years old. This is the longevity prescription given by Francis Brandewiede, 82 years old, of Alton, who announced Thursday that he will be a candidate for City Clerk at the spring election. He was a Justice of the Peace for 25 years and was City Clerk 18 years. Two years ago, partial paralysis forced him to retire from office.

He has now recovered his health and

Don't Spend the Joyous Holiday Season in Needless Baking

The "Holidays" should be a time of good will to all and of burdenless enjoyment for all. It is so for the men folks and for the invited guests, but how about the woman of the house? For her, doesn't holiday-time mean far too often merely a week or two of added burdens—more mouths to feed—more hot hours in the kitchen.

HOLSUM

If you have been accustomed to spend part of your holiday season bread baking, try a new plan this year. Just buy "Holsum," the bread with the butter flavor—the kind that will make you stop home baking for all time, and leave you free to enter into the joys of holiday tide.

When you come to know the uniform excellence of "Holsum," you'll never go back to the old way.

Thousands of St. Louis women have found baking a useless drudgery since they can buy such fine grained, substantial bread in such generous loaves for ten cents.

It is surely worth your trying. Ask your Grocer for "Holsum," and see that you get "Holsum," not some other kind of bread, wrapped and shaped in imitation of the "Holsum" way.

"It's better than your mother ever made."

Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna acts gently yet promptly on the bowels, cleanses the system effectually, assists one in overcoming habitual constipation permanently. To get its beneficial effects buy the genuine.

"FIRST IN EVERYTHING."

SOME FACTS AS TO THE VOTE.

The official vote for President, just completely tabulated, shows that Mr. Bryan again fell short of his 1896 strength, although he gained a little on the showing made in 1900. He had 6,502,925 votes in 1896, 6,553,133 in 1900 and 6,393,182 in 1908. In 1904 Judge Parker received only 5,077,971 votes.

These figures will be variously construed, according to personal and political bias, but one or two facts appear to be indisputable. Mr. Bryan, nominated on all three occasions with the expectation that he would get the Populist vote, received it in full only once (1896), and Judge Parker did not receive any of it. In addition to this, it is plain enough that a nominee who on a second and a third trial cannot show greater strength than he did in the first place is not making much progress toward the White House.

MR. TAFT ON DANGEROUS GROUND.

Now, I am not quite ready to part with the anti-trust law, but * * * that is a work for lawyers who have a knowledge of business conditions. Mr. Taft to the Civic Federation in New York.

Here we have something approaching lese majeste from the President-elect himself. Emperor Theodore has said more than once, and he recently said in chorus with his one-time friend, Edward H. Harriman, that the Sherman law should go.

What can Mr. Taft mean by antagonizing one of his Policies and saying that lawyers having a knowledge of business should be asked to assist in important legislation? Has he no faith in cowboys, in border ruffians, in rough riders and such?

IK MARVEL'S SENTIMENT.

When "Ik Marvel," now dead at the age of 84, wrote his "Reveries of a Bachelor" 50 years ago, he addressed an American public that was not ashamed to confess that it had its sentimental moments.

Many persons of the present day will doubt that our contemporaneous young men gaze into the embers of old wood fires and dream dreams of some beloved girl whom they had been forbidden by an adverse fate from marrying. Rather are these celebrities now likely to rush out for a 100-mile "scorch" in an automobile that shall brush away any such tendency and send them back to their luxurious bachelor apartments with a keen relish of comfortable independence, finishing the evening at their club in a fine spirit of manly contentment with the new conditions.

Waste time in pensive thought about a girl? Never—there's too much action possible for one's money to excuse such weakness as mooning in lonely wistfulness at one's own fireside just because Love's young dream did not materialize happily!

Nevertheless, plenty of people still read "The Reveries of a Bachelor." Who are they? It might prove curiously interesting to discover the answer to this question. Maybe, after all, we are not so lacking in sentiment as we would have others believe. Maybe our young men do indulge in hickory-smoke musings of the loved and lost. Who knows?

PRESIDENT CASTRO'S HEALTH.

President Castro's first dinner at Berlin was made of 15 courses and included six bottles of wine. The eminent Venezuelan statesman is now under the care of an eminent German physician, who is going to tell him what the matter is. Was it necessary to go all the way to Europe? A man who is accustomed to 15-course dinners and who drinks six bottles of wine at a sitting, ought to know without consulting eminence what the matter is when his spirits droop and his strength flags.

Or, if Castro could not guess, there are probably a hundred medicine men in Venezuela who could have furnished a working diagnosis. Herb doctors are often exceedingly clever to tell what ails a man after he has disposed of six bottles of champagne or a half dozen whiskey straight.

However, now that the great doctor has him in charge, we hope the treatment prescribed will restore him to health. Castro is needed in South America. Venezuela without Castro is as unthinkable as Cervantes' great book with Don Quixote and Sancho Panza left out.

BEAUTIFY THE HOME.

When all right-minded persons are struggling for the moral uplift the advantages of flowers should not be forgotten. All can appreciate the beauties of Dame Nature's handiwork, even the blind being gratified by the sense of smell. From the humble rose to the haughty American Beauty rose or the costly orchid, the flower is a thing that makes for good.

Furthermore, they are useful. A burglar about to enter an Alton home turned over a flower pot, the crash arousing the family, scaring the intruder and saving the family plate and jewelry. When rubber plants or geraniums add to their beauty the utility of a burglar alarm, one of them should be found in every home.

Contests before election are not so disconcerting as those that develop after the votes are counted—or are not counted.

"NONE OF YOUR BUSINESS."

That the Panama Canal scandal is a genuine scandal is proved by the President's terror when investigation is proposed. Divested of epithets, misrepresentations and defamation, his special message is so plainly a plea for silence and oblivion that it is difficult to understand how any self-respecting Congressman can oppose the most searching inquiry. Here are a few sentences from this extraordinary paper which reveal surprise, fear, antagonism and defiance as the President contemplates the proposed investigation:

1. A member of Congress has actually introduced a resolution in reference to these charges.
2. Now these stories, as a matter of fact, need no investigation whatever.
3. The records of the French court show who were the stockholders and who received the money, but that is no concern of ours.
4. As a matter of fact there is nothing whatever in which this Government is interested to investigate about this transaction.

Are not these statements remarkable, coming, as they do, from a President who files into a position when it is suggested that a notorious scandal should be investigated, who threatens the press with criminal proceedings, whose language transcends every limitation of decency and decorum and whose attitude is plainly in defiance not only of Congress but of the people?

"The state? I am the state," said the French King. "The Government? I am the Government," echoes Mr. Roosevelt; "you shall not inquire into the operations of the crafty lawyers and Wall street promoters with whom I have dealt, because, for one thing, I do not want an inquiry, and, for another, I tell you that it is unnecessary, and furthermore it is none of your business what became of this money."

WHEN BAYARD ATTACKED CONGRESS.

In 1895 Congress, then Republican in both branches, took exception to certain remarks by Thomas F. Bayard, Democrat, who, under the second Cleveland administration, was Ambassador to England. There were threats of impeachment and some senators and representatives worked themselves into the fiercest of humors. The congressional protest finally took the form of a resolution addressed to the President inquiring as to what action he had taken with reference to Mr. Bayard's speech, and in order that he might know the passages complained of they were cited as follows:

1. The President stood in the midst of a strong, self-confident and oftentimes violent people; men who sought to have their own way. It took a real man to govern the people of the United States.

2. In my country I have witnessed the insatiable growth of a form of socialism styled protection, which has done more to corrupt public life, to banish men of independent mind from public councils, and to lower the tone of national representation than any other cause. * * * Protection has sapped the popular conscience by giving corrupting largesse to special classes and it throws legislation into the political market, where jobbers and chaffers take the place of statesmen.

The President replied to this resolution by transmitting copies in full of Mr. Bayard's speeches and by saying that he had taken no further action in the matter. Congress thereupon dropped the subject, but it felt the sting of the Ambassador's words very keenly, first, because he intimated that the President, and not Congress ruled the people; secondly, because he profaned the Republican god of protection, and, thirdly, because he had said that members of Congress were jobbers and chaffers.

Mr. Bayard's remarks appeared in the course of a long and scholarly address delivered from English platforms to which he had been invited. Mr. Roosevelt's recent attack upon Congress was made in a regular message to that body, which was read in its presence.

RECRUITING FOR THE NAVY.

A current advertisement of the Bureau of Navigation designed to induce enlistments in the Navy urges young men to investigate the advantages of serving Uncle Sam and adds: "The majority of those who investigate enlist, and the majority of those who enlist are well satisfied."

If only a majority of those who enlist are well satisfied, the advantages of enlisting do not seem very alluring. More than a majority of those engaged in other occupations are satisfied or else they would quit their jobs, something they cannot do when they become bluejackets. Conditions should be such that the advertisements could truthfully say that nearly all who enlist are well satisfied. Such conditions would make each seaman a walking recruiting officer and an advertisement so potent that newspaper and billboard publicity would not be needed.

IS HADLEY LOOKING FOR TROUBLE?

Probably Gov. Hadley will think twice before he identifies his administration with a movement in favor of a new constitution for the State of Missouri. Early in January he will undertake extensive and absorbing labors at Jefferson City. To perform well the duties devolving upon him as Chief Magistrate and as leader of a party in power for the first time in 40 years, he will need all the time and strength that he will have at his disposal.

Recent experiments by way of amendment do not indicate that the people are in a humor to enter upon constitution making on an extensive scale. At the last election, of eight propositions submitted, six were voted down, and some of these were more meritorious than the two that were adopted. There are defects in the constitution, but if everything else in the Commonwealth were as satisfactory there would not be serious ground for complaint.

If old Sam Gompers had an idea that Mr. Taft intended to run him out of the country next March he had his mind set at rest in New York the other evening when the President-elect told him that everything that happened during the recent campaign "is wiped out and now is as if it never was." Sam enjoys loafing around the throne, and at this rate it will not be long before he will have a calling acquaintance at the White House once more.

Mr. Schwab limped into the tariff hearing the other day and feebly recorded his protest against any curtailment of governmental tariff to the Steel Trust. The destitution in tariff circles is something fearful this winter.

One of the first great disappointments that is certain to be experienced under the Taft administration is to be most keenly felt in Missouri, where several able gentlemen are preparing for membership in a cabinet that can hardly have more than one Missourian and may not have any.

The German Emperor must not only hold his tongue, but stop spending more than $10,000,000 a year. Of what use is the war lord's crown if it does not carry with it the right to talk as much as he pleases and spend as much as he likes?

Perhaps Mayor Wells' censure of Mr. O'Reilly for being an obstructionist may be explained on the theory that it is the man who has reformed who is always most earnest as an evangelist.

How could the North American Co. have overlooked the Browning-King electric light franchise? Was a lawyer asleep on his job?

The United Railways wants passengers to pay as they enter. St. Louis wants the United Railways to pay its taxes any old time.

They are pulling down Castro statues and burning Castro portraits in Venezuela. This is a bad year for dictators.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Rockefeller's Millions.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I think if Mr. Rockefeller put those millions into American institutions for the educating of Americans he would gain more esteem in the eyes of our best men and women. One healthy child is more desirable than three unhealthy; likewise one intelligent, thoroughly educated native is more desirable than several half-corrupt, half-educated natives. E. S.

Clemency for Policeman Gibbons.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Will you kindly allow me a small space in your valuable paper to make a public protest against the action of the Police Board in discharging Officer Gibbons on a charge of intoxication. After 19 years of faithful service, with an untarnished career, I think it is a shame, an outrage, to take snap judgment and discharge a faithful servant for his first offense. He is human and subject to mistakes. Who is not? Eight more months of service and he would be entitled to a pension. I write this to start a public demand for clemency; no other reason, I do not know the officer, but I do like a square deal. NOT SATISFIED.

For the Children's Sake.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I heartily agree with "Experience" and "Divorce" that a divorce is preferable to living the cat-and-dog existence that some couples do, thereby depriving their children of their birthright; for it is certainly every child's birthright that it should see only the peaceful, decent side of its parents' compact. Some statisticians say: "At the present rate of divorce there will be in 1920, one to every marriage." Let us hope there may be an awakening by that time and a marriage rite secured to fit the people—as the people cannot be made to fit the present one. JUSTICE.

Christmas Holidays.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
For the first time in a good many years the working people of St. Louis will have an opportunity of spending three days at home or enjoying themselves away from their work without in the least inconveniencing their employers. This will happen on next Christmas day, which falls on Friday, Saturday and Sunday. You have been active in espousing the cause of the working people generally and it just occurs to some of us who are in a large mercantile house that a slight hint, or rather an energetic campaign on your part, will result in this extra holiday being given to us. Why not take up the matter in the columns of your paper and sound out a number of the large business men of the city? It would be no trouble to make it general if only a few of the enterprising people of the city would decide to close on these days. TOILERS.

Who Lies Most?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
J. S. J. in your issue of the 12th inst., unnecessarily concerns himself as to whether men or women do the most lying. Were a complete census of the world taken to settle the question, it would no doubt show that the practice does not exist—it being the other people who do it all. Arguments of this kind are useless because there is no way to settle them and each partisan sticks to his opinion, which has been formed by his own observation and experience. Personally, I don't care who lies most; the most lying and cannot see that it makes any difference. If women do more lying than men, there is probably a good reason for it. I would like to live long enough to see the general recognition of the fact that men and women are on this earth for different but absolutely co-ordinate purposes and to see the extinction of the idea that a man is one kind of an animal and a woman another. The questions of superiority and inferiority as between the sexes have no actual existence, because there is not and never was intended to be any common basis for comparison. ARMISTEAD.

Woman's "High Position."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Mrs. Root, wife of Secretary Root, opposes in democratic America an equal adult suffrage because she thinks it will "lower woman from her high position." Is it a mark of "high position" not to be able to secure anything by wheedling or pleading, petitions or unwomanly bickering; to get what she wants, if she does get it, not in a dignified way by means of the ballot, but in a circuitous, nerve-racking, humiliating and wasteful way, by means of personal effort or because the men she knows are wealthy wire pullers? Is it a "high position" to be compelled to be forever clasped with convicts and driving idiots; to be forever a minor? Her position is not so "high" but that the American Government compels her to expatriate herself the moment she marries a foreigner; not so "high" but that it can tax every dollar she possesses and spend that tax to suit itself, without regard to her wishes in either case; not so "high" but that when armies of women surge into the factories to earn their daily bread it gives them no right to legislate for even a nine-hour day, no right to have equal pay for equal work, no right to say a word about sanitation or inspection or liabilities for accident; not so "high" but that it claims and disposes of her children as it pleases; not so "high" but that her husband can collect and spend her wages; not so "high" but that it divorces her according to its own ideas; not so "high" but that she is denied freedom of choice in the election of even a backwoods school director; not so "high" but that she can be hung under laws she was forbidden to help make. All these things are apparently none of her business. Men make flowery speeches about the excellencies of women and say "The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world;" yet they never allowed that much-bragged-about mother to govern herself; never allowed her to help make a law that shall influence the financial, or physical or moral welfare of her child. After giving praise to the mother for her devoted labor in rearing a creditable son, the moment he is 21 he is given the ballot and turns around and legislates for this mother, because, they say, she hasn't sense enough to cast a ballot herself. Is the position of women so "high" then, that self-government is going to lower it much? L. M. C.

WHAT'S THE ANSWER.

Like all wise men, Mr. Busch loves to propound puzzles for little wits to guess at. Starting for California last night, he said:

"I am glad to see the people of Missouri have returned to their old common sense."

What is it leads Mr. Busch to believe we have returned either to our old or our common sense?

For the three most logical answers Just-A-Minute will give the following prizes: First prize, three cheers; second, two cheers; third prize, one cheer.

All answers must be in before the close of the present Roosevelt lull.

The Song of Seneca.

Tell us not in mournful numbers that the town is full of gloom, for the men's a crank that slumbers in these blustering days of boom. Life is real, life is earnest and the grave is not its goal; every dollar that thou turnest helps to make the old town roll. Joy and sorrow are not sorrow in our destined end or way; if you have no money, borrow—buy a corner lot each day! Lives of great men all remind us we can gain immortal fame. Let us leave the clump behind us and we'll get there just the same. In this world's broad field of battle, in the bivouac of life let us make the dry bones rattle—buy a corner for your wife! Let us then be up and doing with a heart for any task, still pursuing old aims, pushing loyal real estate. Seneca (Mo.) Dispatch-Boulder.

CARMEN SYLVA'S CROWN.

Her Story of the Coronation
as Told in the Housekeeper.

IN that paradoxical little country of Roumania, Queen Carmen Sylva and her husband sit securely on their throne, while other monarchs know not what the next day will bring forth. Carmen Sylva tells the story of how she obtained the famous iron crown, and the famous coronation scene.

"Can you wonder our Coronation was a sad ceremony when I tell you that in those days there was famine and fever in the land, and terrible drought? Bare fields and an empty treasury, with an enemy only just turned from our gates—here were no conditions for a joyous pageant.

"Every little village commune sent its Starost and elders to the Coronation—nearly seven thousand superb specimens of Roumanian peasantry, dark-eyed and muscular; immensely picturesque too, in snow-white linen, richly embroidered in many-colored silks. I wore pale yellow satin, embroidered all over with gold, and on my head a diadem of pearls from which depended a long, white filmy veil, like those you see in old church pictures. Around me stood my ladies and maids of honor, most of them wearing the Order I had given them for services rendered in nursing during the war.

"All night the crowns had lain in the cathedral, heaped about with flags, and watched by a Guard of Honor. And now they were brought on big red velvet cushions to the Palace and laid before us. First King Charles made a little speech, and then stretched out his hand toward the now famous iron diadem.

"But if the people thought he would place it on his head they were mistaken.

LOVE'S POWERFUL ALLY

Cheerfulness Is the Most Desirable Trait in a Mate, Says This Writer.

BY HELEN OLDFIELD.

THERE is an old story of a suitor who, wishing not to marry any but an amiably disposed woman, made an attempt to test the temper of the girl whom he admired by upsetting a plate of soup upon her beautiful dinner gown, presuming that, as she had but little money, the gown would be of importance to her.

She was charmingly sweet under the ordeal, and delighted at her amiability. The lover upon the first opportunity proposed and was accepted.

Later on, when the bride proved to be little short of a vigar, her disappointed husband reminded her of the incident.

"O, yes," she rejoined, "I remember; but did you think me fool enough to fly at you in public? I was angry enough to have struck you, but I bit my tongue and smiled—of course I did. What else could I do? You ought to have seen me cry with rage when you had gone and I went upstairs."

It is not upon such occasions as this that the truth comes out, but in daily intercourse; not when lovers are alone, but when everyday associates are present that side lights on character may appear, says Helen Oldfield in the Chicago Tribune. When the two go about together, let them each note the manner of the other to strangers, to old people and children in crowded cars, to beggars, may, even the manner of a man toward a stray dog sometimes may be an index of character well worth observing.

A man usually can see his lady love in her own home, where her manner toward her family and theirs to her, especially of the younger children, should be noted. The sister who is beloved by her small brothers and sisters usually is lovable all the way through, is apt to be even-tempered and companionable in everyday life.

There is no more desirable trait for a companion in the journey of life than that of cheerfulness, the yokefellow of good temper. "A merry heart doeth good."

But cheerfulness is not merely hilarity and fun.

It includes the ability to look on the bright side, to make the best of everything, to refuse to meet trouble half way and to do one's best bravely and hopefully.

Such a disposition is invaluable, and the worth of its owner truly is above rubies.

The table looked so pretty; Said she: "It is a pity, But what's the use of crying for the moon?"

It's too late to get another, And not one fraternal brother Will notice that I have to use a spoon."

But when dessert was served, With horror she observed: "The boys must think me crazy as a loon."

"Don't!" for Meat. Don't put salt meat on to boil in hot water. If cold is used the salt will be extracted while cooking.

Fresh meat, boiled, to be served with sauce at table, should be put on to cook in boiling water; when the outer fibers contract, the inner juices are preserved.

Meat put on to cook for broth should, on the other hand, be set to cook in cold water that the juice may enrich the soup.

Don't add cold water to boiling meats; add it very hot.

Don't forget that a tough piece of meat may be made tender by roasting or boiling very slowly; the fiber of meats is toughened by high temperature.

A Last Will.

ONE of those little contributions which, appearing in some publication, are taken up, republished, and ultimately become classics, is "A Last Will," by Whistler. It was originally published in the issue of Harper's Weekly for September 3, 1888; afterward it began to attract attention, and reappeared from time to time in different newspapers throughout the country, often mutilated, occasionally altered, gathering accretions and being debased until the beauty of the original was lost. In order to present it in its original form, this is republished:

"First," says the testator, "I give to good fathers and mothers, but in trust for their children, nevertheless, all good little words of praise and all quaint pet names, and I charge said parents to use them justly but generally, as the needs of their children shall require."

"Item.—I leave to children exclusively, but only for the life of their childhood, all and every, the dabbledowns of the fields and the daisies thereof, with the right to play among them freely, according to the custom of children, warning them, at the same time, against the thistles. And I devise to children the yellow shores of creeks and the golden sands beneath the waters thereof, with the dragon-flies that skim the surface of said waters, and the odors of the willows that dip into said waters, and the white clouds that float high over the giant trees."

"Item.—To lovers I devise their imaginary world, with whatever they may need, as the stars of the sky, the red, red roses by the wall, the snow of the hawthorn, the sweet strains of music, or aught else they may desire to figure to each other the lastness and beauty of their love."

And much more is bequeathed—something to each of us, not forgetting memory to the old. It is a will to cut out and to keep by one.

A Correspondence Sunday School

From "A Point of View" in Scribner's

THAT the correspondence schools are now flourishing is evidence that they have supplied an obvious deficiency in our previous educational arrangements, even if they have had to get along as best they could without the potent aid of the actual teacher's presence. Their popularity is proof also that the Complete Letter-Writer of our youthful days, with its forms for all sorts of occasions, was not really complete, since it did not engage to supply a perfect education also. There seems to be no field of instruction which the epistolary tutor is not now prepared to pre-empt. It is true that I have not happened yet to read any advertisement of a correspondence Sunday school, and yet such an institution may exist, even though I have no knowledge of it. Indeed, it seems impossible that the methods of absent treatment should not have been applied to religion as well as to sign painting and dentistry and English literature.

I say this with the more confidence since I chanced recently to find in a column of educational advertisements two appeals to ambitious youth, which opened unexpected vistas as to the possibilities of instruction by letters. These two advertisements followed one another without the interposition of another advertisement of any other correspondence school. Thus displayed they afforded an example of what may perhaps be termed humor by juxtaposition. Here they are—with only a polite transformation of the address, made advisable solely because these remarks of mine are not intended for the advertising pages of this magazine:

PLAYWRITING as a profession brings fame and fortune. You need not be a genius to succeed. Full course by correspondence. Address: Dramatic Institute, Bean House, Mass. ALEPH PLUMBING—Many of our students have graduated in four months and are earning regular plumber's wages. Illustrations catalogue free. Correspondence School, Mississippi, Mo. The sole suggestion the reader may feel called upon to make is to the effect that it is a pity that the writer of the first advertisement did not assert that "many of our students are earning regular playwright's wages."

MEN'S FASHIONS

A NEW ulster seen in Fifth avenue was made of a mixed gray cheviot and was cut very long and full, but was belted in at the waist with a somewhat narrow belt of the same material as the coat, which was run through about six straps, buttoning in front in the old fashioned manner. The coat had two big square patch pockets on the sides, but well forward. Each of these had a square flap buttoning with two buttons, one in either corner. It was one of the "smarter" garments seen this winter and, in spite of its fullness, made the wearer look extremely slim.

A STRIKING pattern of brocaded silk shows an elaborate cherry design in which both the fruit and the leaves are portrayed. Scarfs made of this fabric come in various shades and colors. A new black silk scarf, having large black satin dots at regular intervals. These dots are almost as large as a 10-cent piece.

THE long silk knitted mufflers, of black, white or even high-color silks, which play so prominent a part in the evening dress of the moment, have now a rival in the field in the form of long silk scarfs made of pure or taffeta silk. They also have fringed ends like those of their knitted cousins.

SILK and linen handkerchiefs for the holidays are being shown in infinite variety these days. They come in solid colors with white borders and also in white, bordered by stripes in two contrasting shades.

A NOVELTY cane is made of bamboo and has a silver knob which is hollowed out in the center, the opening being covered by a small watch crystal. Within are some discs, which may be "shaken" by releasing a spring.

and that the writer of the second advertisement did not assert that "plumbing 'you need not be a genius to succeed.'"

"Resting the Skin"

A Little Sermon on Soap

PHYSICIANS describe a certain physical condition as "getting into a vicious circle." This would mean that the Skin was inflamed because it was irritated, and irritated because it was inflamed.

A condition like that might be practically perpetual. This is where the securing of "Therapeutic Rest" is the first important step toward recovery.

If the affected Skin can be relieved of its own irritation for a time the inflammation, Redness, Soreness, or infection will of themselves disappear through the recuperative processes of nature. The "Vicious Circle" will thus be broken.

A vital factor in the twelve year success of that Skin-Specific called "Resinol" is its Anodyne capacity for putting Pain, Itching and Irritation to Sleep—for bringing rest to the Skin.

"Resinol" deadens the Sting of a wasp, for instance, in two minutes, stops unbearable Itching almost instantly, and soothes Irritation like a charm, when outwardly applied.

In doing this it secures for the Skin "Therapeutic Rest" during which the splendid healing powers of Resinol are made four times as effective as they could be without this "Skin-Rest" factor.

"Resinol" is also a powerful, though harmless, germicide, which destroys Bacteria and Disease-Germs wherever applied.

These are the reasons why Physicians, the world over, prescribe it not only for obstinate Skin diseases, but for deep-seated and sluggish Sores that will not heal under ordinary treatment.

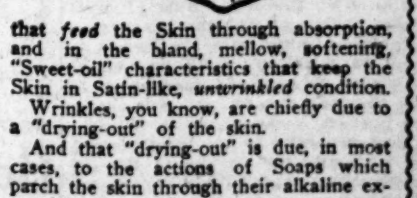

Resinol Soap is first of all proofed against the breeding of Bacteria, which thrive and multiply in all other forms of Fat kept at the household temperature of Soap.

Skin diseases, therefore, cannot be transmitted by Resinol Soap, nor by contact while it is being daily used.

Because Resinol Soap is absolutely Antiseptic, and remains "Surgically Clean" to the last day of its use.

That's a fact worth pondering over.

This Antiseptic and Preservative quality makes it possible to enrich Resinol Soap far beyond all others in the Nutrient factors that feed the Skin through absorption, and in the bland, mellow, softening, "Sweet-oil" characteristics that keep the Skin in Satin-like, unswerving condition. Wrinkles, you know, are chiefly due to a "drying-out" of the skin.

And that "drying-out" is due, in most cases, to the actions of Soaps which parch the skin through their alkaline excess.

Resinol Soap produces a rich, creamy, bland lather that softens even hard water.

This softening lather lasts long enough to thoroughly massage the Skin with and permit the thirsting pores to absorb the nutrient, antiseptic, healing and lubricating factors that render the Skin smooth as velvet and ward off wrinkles.

Its Anodyne quality leaves the skin after washing in a delightful state of "Therapeutic Rest" with a feeling of Refreshment, Coolness, Cleanliness and well-being while its odor suggests the faint fragrance of fine old-fashioned Russia Leather.

For Toilet, Bath, Hair-washing, or Baby's use, Resinol Soap has no equal.

CHASE MAY YET BE SECURED BY BROWNS AS NEW YORK CLUB DESIRES TO TRADE HIM SHOULD HE RETURN

ST. LOUIS TEAMS NOW HAVE BRAINS BEHIND THE BAT

With Bresnahan and Criger, the Cardinals and Browns Should Be Vastly Improved.

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

NEXT to the man who pitches the ball, the man who catches it is the most important player on any team. A good catcher can often make a baseball club, and if this axiom holds good, next summer St. Louis will have two splendid teams, for, in Criger and Bresnahan, the Browns and Cardinals, respectively, have two of the four best catchers in the game of baseball today.

It's a good thing in baseball to have the brains where the ball is. An outfielder with the best brains in the business can do no good when the ball is in the catcher's hands. In the defensive end of baseball the pitcher and catcher handle the ball nearly all of the time. If they can fool the batter all of the time the opposing club will never score. If they can fool him most of the time he will seldom score, but if they fool him only occasionally he will score often.

If you were to ask Charley Comiskey, the proud owner of the Chicago White Sox, what man has been mostly responsible for the strong showing of his team year after year, he might name big Ed Walsh, the gigantic pitcher first, but it's an even chance he would name Catcher Billy Sullivan. Comiskey has finished in the second division but once since the organization of the American League and that was the summer that Billy Sullivan lay ill in the hospital after an operation for appendicitis.

The Chicago Cubs, twice world champions and three times pennant winners in the National League, can lay much of their success to catcher Johnny Kling, generally conceded to be the best backstop in baseball today.

Next to these two Chicago catchers are Roger Bresnahan, the newly appointed manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, and Lew Criger, the lately acquired catcher for the Browns. There will be brainwork behind the bat in the same here next summer.

Bresnahan's execution on the ball field is not so exact as Johnny Kling's. Sullivan or Criger's. However, he has displayed almost as great mental development as any of the three and excels by many points any one of the others in hitting and base running. McGraw had a job on his hands to make a catcher of Roger. Two years ago he was far from finished in the job, and probably had more passed balls and errors than any regular catcher in the game. But at the same time he had that building determination to stick to a thing 'till he was its master and today he is almost as expert as any of them.

McGraw formerly played him in the outfield, where he made a reputation as a hitter and base runner. But "Muggsy" needed a catcher badly and had plenty of outfielders, and Roger was shifted to the spot back of the batter. The years of experience under McGraw has made him probably the most aggressive player in the National League. To us in St. Louis last summer it seemed Bresnahan had but to look scornfully at the umpire to gain any favors. He has the carriage and manners of a natural leader of other men, and it will be a surprise to every one if he fails to make good as a manager.

Criger Is Faultless as a Catcher, but May Lack Physical Strength

Criger may not be so aggressive as Bresnahan, and of course is not the batter and baserunner that the former New Yorker is, but as a master of the game he has no superior, and he will lift loads of responsibility off the shoulders of the pitchers. He is as quick as those catchers who know every little weakness of every batter in the American League, and his mind is quick to pick the delivery that tantalizes the batter.

Criger has no faults, unless it can be said to be fault to be only a weak. About two seasons back, Criger was taken ill and has never had his full strength since, and it is doubtful if he can stand as hard work as a player, of Spencer's physique. But, though weakened slightly, he is as active and alert as any catcher, a cat, and nothing ever escapes his eyes and his brain, though his arm of course will permit stolen bases and errors at times.

The Browns already possess some of the brainiest pitchers in the business. Put an intellectual pitcher with a catcher of equal mind, and the two can win games with their heads sometimes when their arms are bad. Billy Sullivan and "Doc" White have batted many a victory for the White Sox with nothing but battery tricks, and Criger should be able to do a few startling things with such pitchers as Howell, Dinnien, Petty and Powell.

today to help a pitcher," said Howell, after hearing of the trade. He has had so much experience, and is such a quick and accurate thinker, that he is far above any of them. For instance, he will be able to help me on fielding bunts. Often it is possible for the pitcher to gather up a bunted ball and cut a runner off at second base, but he can waste no time in turning to see if the play is possible. Criger's judgment on such plays is so good that he can tell the pitcher where to throw the ball, so that he might take a chance on making the play at second base before the runner can get to first. Such a play often wins a game."

Rube Waddell, who is spending much of his time hunting down near the village of Sparta, has written a letter of congratulations to Owner Hedges on the Browns on securing such a valuable catcher as Criger. "With a man like that to pitch to, I'll win two-thirds of my games, sure, next season," writes Rube. "He'll help me a lot in the game, and I hope McAleer will always assign him to work on the days when I am to go to the mound. I expect to be in better shape for the early part of the season, this year than last," continued Rube. "I'm outdoors all day long down here in the country, and just enjoying myself shooting. We get so many quail that we can't begin to use all of them. After Christmas, I plan to go to Hot Springs or West Baden and begin preparing for next spring."

BROWNS MAY YET GET HAL CHASE

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—According to a telegram received here today there is a chance for Hal Chase to get back in the game next season. In his message he says he is willing to come back in the fold if the New York club wants him back and his friends are coming in with excuses that his desertion was prompted by ill health.

If Farrell is willing to condone the fault and Chase is rehabilitated it is possible he may go to St. Louis. Mr. Hedges tried hard to buy Farrell's claim on the player when he was here, but Farrell would not sell. It was said at the time that Farrell's principal objection to dickering for the celebrated recalcitrant first baseman was because of his contumacy, but if peace can be patched up and Chase's standing restored Farrell may not be so averse to a trade.

Experts here think there is a chance for Stanley Robinson to get in the trading game by using Billy Gilbert. The sharp all think Gilbert is of managerial caliber and that in charge of a team he would surely make good. Ebbetts is still as badly off for a manager as ever. It looks like the harder he wants Dahlgren the harder it is to get him and this would leave a chance to slip Gilbert in, and there are quite a few of the Superbas who could be used to advantage in St. Louis.

Mr. Robinson may also have a chance at a good man, as McGraw is willing to trade Herzog. It has been supposed he was snarled of Herzog and meant him for the outfield, but this is not at all certain.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives and publishes news gathered by the Associated Press.

COCHEMS TO PLAY ECKERSALL'S TEAM

Eddie Cochems, coach of the St. Louis University football eleven, has arranged a special football game between an all-star team from this city and an all-star team from Chicago, captained by Walter Eckersall, to be played in the Coliseum, New Year's afternoon.

Harris of Minnesota, King of West Point, McGinnis, Notre Dame and a number of other stars are booked to play on Eckersall's team, as well as the once all-American quarterback of the Maroons himself, who will act as quarterback in the game New Year's. Cochems will play the game himself, in all probability one of the end positions, at which he was a star while at Wisconsin. Clarence Kenney and Jack Schneider, two of the stars of the last year's St. Louis U. team, who coached the Creighton eleven this season, are also to play with St. Louis. The proceeds of the game, after gate receipts, minus expenses, to be turned over to charity.

HOCKEY GAMES ARRANGED FOR NEW ICE RINK

"Bob" Gillespie, who has been connected with various different sporting events in St. Louis for many years, has been secured by Manager John C. Meyers of the Auditorium to take charge of the hockey and all carded features for the rink. Gillespie will start negotiations immediately to bring the best attractions to the rink. The Auditorium has organized an inter-school hockey league. Teams from Manual, Central High, McKinley High, Smith Academy, Yeatman High and Western M. A. have entered. The games will be played every Saturday morning. A handsome cup goes to the pennant winner.

MURPHY MATCHED WITH C. GRIFFIN

By JOHN POLLOCK.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Charles Griffin, the Australian, and Tommy Murphy of Harlem were matched last night to meet in a 12-round bout at the next show of the Army A. A. of Boston on Tuesday night. Murphy has been substituted for Owen Moran, who injured his hand in his battle with Frankie Neil at the same club last Tuesday night. In selecting Murphy as an opponent for Griffin, Matchmaker Miah Murray made an excellent move. These lads are both of the greatest fighters, and as they keep going all the time, they ought to furnish one of the best scraps ever witnessed in this city. Griffin is training at Northboro, Mass., for the battle.

The gross receipts of the 25-round battle between Billy Papke and Hugo Kelly at the Jeffries A. C. at Los Angeles on Tuesday night amounted to $8780. Of this amount, Papke drew down $3500, while Kelly received $2500 for his end. This is the largest sum that Kelly has got out of a fight in a long time. The club made $2500 out of the bout after all expenses were paid.

Fighting Dick Hyland, who is to meet Packy McFarland in a 10-round bout before the Pacific A. C. of Los Angeles on Jan. 15, has posted a forfeit of $1000 with a sporting man of Los Angeles and issued a challenge to fight Freddie Welsh, the English lightweight, for 25 rounds before the Jeffries A. C. Welsh agreed to fight Hyland if the latter could secure a side bet of $1000 and Hyland has called his bet.

When Packy McFarland steps into the ring at New Orleans on next Wednesday night for his 20-round battle with "Young Ernie" of Philadelphia, he will have his own referee to judge the battle. Harry Gilmore, manager of McFarland, demanded of the club officials that Malachy Hogan of Chicago, referee the contest, and as he threatened to call off the bout unless officials gave in to him.

Henry Schlenk practically passed up a chance to take the prize for the high nine games from scratch when he got but 532 pins, and but 574 in the doubles. Schlenk was the man figured to nose out Qualey.

While the Witter-Christians bowlers failed to do anything out of the ordinary either in their two-men or individual games, two new scratch marks were established for the tournament last night. Rube and Bennett of the East St. Louis five-men teams, who bowled 1173 pins from scratch, which is the high scratch mark up to date. Bennett got 530 pins and Rube 533. Their handicap was 57 pins, which gave them a handicap total of 1233.

Marathon Runners Eager for Chance at Longboat

Big Money Is Offered Indian to Compete in Race on the Pacific Coast.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—It appears as if the entire country has gone Marathon mad. Never has a sport which languished for years because of lack of patronage sprung so quickly into life again.

Hardly had the lanky Longboat, who until four years ago was a humble resident on a Canadian Indian reservation, defeated Dorando on Tuesday night at Madison Square Garden, than challenges from points even as distant as Los Angeles came in. The first of these was from managers in the California city, who state they are willing to pay $4000 each to Dorando and John Hayes if they will run the Marathon on the coast.

"Con" Connelly, the San Francisco amateur who last Monday won the challenge in that city, has followed the challenge to the Indian, the Italian and the American, and is willing to desert the amateur ranks and turn professional, as about $3000, under present conditions, can be made in a night by a runner of his ability.

Albert Corey, a well-known long-distance runner of Chicago, followed quickly, with a challenge to anyone willing to run the Marathon distance against him.

"Jim" Crowley, the hod carrier, who recently captured first place in the Yonkers Marathon, is also willing to desert the amateur ranks and become professional, believing that the long-distance running game has come into its own and is a lucrative one. Alfred Shrubbs, who holds every world's record from five to fifteen miles and is regarded as the greatest long-distance runner in the world's history, has been asked to engage in a

Burns-Johnson Battle Is Greatest of Many Years

Distance to Australia Prevents Live News of It but Excitement There Is Keen.

BY ROBERT EDGREN.

DOWN in Australia Tommy Burns and Jack Johnson are still training hard for their fight on Dec. 28. This will be one of the greatest world's championship battles pulled off in several years. It will be the first time a negro has ever been given a chance to fight for the heavyweight title. It will not be a one-sided fight like so many of our championship affairs. Burns is the pick of the white heavyweights and Johnson outclasses the other negro aspirants.

There are other features of a sensational character. The purse, for instance, amounts, with expenses allowed, to over $40,000. This, deposited in real money, is a record breaker. There have been other $40,000 purses, but only on paper, not in coin of the realm. The attendance—the gate money—will probably outclass anything else in the line, ever known to the sporting world. Even the great battles of John L. Sullivan, Bob Fitzsimmons, Jim Corbett and big Jim Jeffries will be shaded in this respect.

And, in spite of these things, we are hearing little about the affair, simply because it is happening on the other side of the world. Mail service from Australia takes more than a month, at the best, and cable rates are almost prohibitive. The result of the fight, taking place in the forenoon of the 28th, will be known in New York just before midnight of the day before, Dec. 28, owing to the difference in time between the two countries.

After the fight the winner, whether it is Burns or Johnson, will probably take in a little easy money in Australia, then scoop a few thousand in England, and finally come to America to show that there will be no more unwhipped heavyweights left anywhere else. Burns and Johnson have cleared them all up.

This will bring Al Kaufmann into the heavyweight championship mias. He is in a position now to demand a show. After that there'll be little chance for anyone to mix in for a while, unless Jeffries himself should take up the game again.

NOW that the excitement of the great race is over, Dorando's claim that Longboat tripped and threw him can be easily understood. A man who makes unfounded excuses after a defeat is usually known as a "quitter." But this doesn't apply to the game little Italian. Dorando was on the point of collapse when he went down. He was running within a foot of the curb. When he sawed his foot struck the curb and slipped, throwing him suddenly. If he had been tripped the result would have been the same, and in his dazed condition Dorando naturally thought something of that sort must have happened. Scores of people who saw the fall testify that there was a clear space of at least six feet between Dorando and the curb, and Dorando at this time, so interference of any kind was impossible.

Marathon races are an uncertain thing. Even the greatest runner in the world is likely to have the same sort of a collapse that struck Dorando. Sudden sports are apt to affect the heart and unexpectedly bring a man down, even though he appeared full of strength a moment before.

In defense of Dorando it is fair to say that he may not have entirely recovered from the Hayter race of only a few weeks before. Trainers of amateur athletes say that one grueling Marathon race in a season is enough. If Longboat, Dorando, Hayes and the others go around the country reeling of these distance events week after week they will upset all traditions.

WHILE Billy Papke did not succeed in knocking out Hugo Kelly in 25 rounds, he showed that Ketchel's wallop haven't taken the fight out of him. Kelly always was a hard customer. But the result of the fight does one thing. It shows what a wonder Ketchel is in spite of his one lost battle. Ketchel finished Kelly almost in a punch.

DALY AND HORGAN MEET AT RED BALL TONIGHT

John Horgan and John Daly, two old-time "pals" and rivals, will meet in the red-ball billiard tournament match at the Pine this evening. Morgan's principal idea in entering the tournament was to defeat the "Irish Count," he will be unable to get away from the grin that won't come off.

Daly defeated Horgan in a match for the three-cushion championship. Horgan has a big lead on Daly, but Daly beat him out, greatly to the sorrow of Horgan. Horgan has not been playing the red-ball game long enough to hardly hope to beat out Peterson and Cline in 7-point matches. Daly not only has hope, but his friends also are crediting him with more than an outside chance to win the tournament.

Albert Cutler defeated Frank Day easily last night, 75 to 48. Cutler's best runs were 8 and 14. His average was 3.67. Day made two runs of 9 and one of 12. Day plays Joe Capron, Friday night.

Harriet Loses to O'Keefe. PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 17.—The opening bout at the Olympic A. C. at Easton last night was stopped at the close of the eighth round, although it was scheduled to go 15 rounds. The principals were Tommy O'Keefe and Joe Hurst. The latter injured his knee and was greatly handicapped.

Indiana Loses Little Boy. CARLISLE, Pa., Dec. 17.—Little Boy, who was recently elected captain of the Carlisle football team, has been declared ineligible. An investigation showed that he played football before he became a member of the Carlisle team, on which he has played since 1905.

SULLIVAN READY TO BOX ANYONE

Billy Garen, manager of "Brooklyn" Tommy Sullivan, announced last night after Sullivan had returned from Little Rock, Ark., that he has $5000 to wager that Sullivan can defeat any 154-pound boxer in the world. Garen offered to post his money with any sporting editor in St. Louis as soon as the challenge is accepted. He declared that he would also wager $5000 with any man that the Sullivan-McNeill bout at Little Rock Tuesday night was decided on its merits and the winner to turn his opponent's share of the wage over to charity.

"I had been working over every morning for a week and was in excellent condition, and to tell you the truth I could have stopped McNeill in the first round if I had wanted to," said Sullivan.

"Still, they can't say I framed up an easy bout for myself. Some time ago Angelo Marro, the Little Rock promoter, wrote me asking me if there was any man in St. Louis who would box me. I answered that McNeill, an Englishman, was in St. Louis and had been challenging me. I said he claimed he best Unholts and Pedlar Palmer. He then sent a letter to McNeill in care of the Post-Dispatch, offering him a fight."

Gordon Wins at Hauser. Gordon defeated Strickland in the straight-rail billiard tournament game at the Hauser last night, 15 to 10. Gordon averaged 2 and made a high

FOUGHT FANATICS, REWARDED

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 17.—As a reward for his bravery in the fight with "Adam God" and his followers one day last week, Sergt. Clark of the police force has been promoted to the rank of Captain by the Board of Police Commissioners. The promotion carries with it an increase in salary from $80 to $125 a month. When the announcement was made the crowd in the board room cheered. The board adopted a resolution commending Clark.

Capt. Clark was shot in the body and cut in several places in the fight with the fanatics. A knife thrust destroyed the sight of his right eye.

TAFT TELLS OHIO SOCIETY TARIFF MUST BE REVISED

Declares He Stands by Party Platform Without Apology or Equivocation.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—William H. Taft delighted his hearers at the annual banquet of the Ohio Society of New York last night when he forcefully, fearlessly and without equivocation stated that the Republican platform pledged him and his party to tariff revision, and that he stood by the party declaration without fear and without apology. The statement won applause.

His further declaration that while the Sherman anti-trust law might be partially "amended and modified" in some of its features, it was, nevertheless, a necessary and good law, won further applause.

"I've had a very peculiar experience this evening," he said. "I went through it without the pain I anticipated. I heard my brother make a speech about me. In earlier days, when better discipline prevailed, I would not have permitted it. I am two years older than he. Once he said 'My big brother Bill says there ain't going to be no hell.' But that is a subject on which I must not talk."

"But I am going to talk a little politics tonight. In a platform of a party the policy of a party is defined. In that the party goes before the people. A sacred duty on the part of the Executive, on the part of the Senate, on the part of the leaders of the House rests upon the party. The declarations must be carried out. The pledges must be kept. The party must keep faith."

"The most important plank, the most striking, in the Republican platform, was that relating to the tariff, and pledging a revision to be fixed at an extra session of Congress. That is a sacred promise. We said that the tariff was to be revised on the principle of protection."

Sherman Act included.

"One word about the Sherman anti-trust act. As I stated in the platform that we proposed to carry out the Roosevelt policies. That includes the Sherman act, or a proper modification thereof."

"The business of the next administration is to lay down a rule that will be absolute. That statute is a criminal statute, and the next administration will lay down a line that the business man may not cross. May not cross, I say."

BURTON WILL NOT BE A MEMBER OF TAFT'S CABINET

He and President-Elect Split and C. P. Taft Says He Will Be Next Ohio Senator.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—It was authoritatively announced today that the offer of a cabinet position to Congressman Theodore Burton of Cleveland had been withdrawn by President-elect Taft and would not be renewed.

Mr. Burton had been mentioned as the Secretary of the Treasury in Mr. Taft's Cabinet, and it was said that the portfolio had been definitely offered to him.

Today's announcement followed a conference of Mr. Taft with several Republican leaders of Ohio. Mr. Burton, it is believed, will now make an active contest in the Ohio senatorial campaign.

At the meeting the senatorial candidacy of Charles P. Taft was positively endorsed with William H. Taft agreeing to it enthusiastically and Harry P. Daugherty remaining silent. Daugherty could not enthuse over it at all. But he was ignored.

Charles P. Taft, himself, after the meeting, admitted to a Post-Dispatch reporter that there was not, in his opinion, much doubt about the outcome.

"The senatorial situation in Ohio is all right," said he. "I am in the race and I shall win it. I will be the next Senator from Ohio."

Taft and Burton at Odds.

There is a decided split between President-elect Taft and Theodore Burton, the Cleveland Congressman. One of the men who attended the conference, but refused to be quoted, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter:

"Burton is a marplot. He has been spreading the story around Ohio that the President-elect was embarrassed by the ambition of his brother Charles to be elected Senator. Nothing is further from the truth, and Burton knows it."

"Mr. William H. Taft wants to see his brother, to whom he is greatly indebted for his present success, land in the Senate. He cannot afford to come out publicly in favor of him, but we who know Mr. William Taft most intimately know that his heart is in his brother's candidacy and that he will urge it in every honorable and dignified way."

"Burton has made an alliance with the man that he denounced at the Dayton convention a few years ago—Joseph Benson Foraker. He and Foraker are working hand in glove today. They are working to defeat Charles P. Taft for the Senate just as Foraker worked to defeat the nomination of William H. Taft for President."

"It is as fine an example of political intrigue as I have ever seen. But it is foredoomed to failure. Charles P. Taft will be the Republican caucus nominee."

Taft Says "Bumble-Puppy," FRIENDS THINK WORD BEATS "MOLLYCODDLE" TO FRAZZLE

President Admits He's B.-P. Golf Player, Meaning Can't Play, but Thinks He Can.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—President-elect Taft having committed himself to "my policies," salutes President Theodore Roosevelt, and, without desiring to detract from the fame of "mollycoddle,"
"licked to a frazzle," and other Roose-veltian coinages, offers "bumble-puppy."
It came out spontaneously—"bumble-puppy!" just like that—and Mr. Taft applied it to himself; so it's safe. He was speaking last night of his chat during the day with Walter J. Travis, the crack golfer. "It was just such a talk on golf as you would expect between an expert on the one hand and a man who plays golf like a bumble-puppy." Following are the definitions of "bumble-puppy":
Standard Dictionary—Whist played un-scientifically or regardless of rules.
Century Dictionary—One who imagines
he can play whist and undertakes to do so.
Mr. Taft is the pioneer in introducing the word for more general application than the dictionaries allow.

Society

ONE of the handsomest receptions of the week was that given by Mr. and Mrs. James W. Garneau at their home in Washington terrace
Wednesday evening between 8 and 10 o'clock. The reception was given for Mr. and Mrs. Garneau's daughter, Miss Marie Garneau. Christmas green decorated the entire lower floor and pink Killarney roses were used profusely in the drawing-room, where the hosts and their daughter received. Miss Garneau wore a frock of white mousseline satin and tulle, and Mrs. Garneau was in French gray and heavy lace. Some of the guests were: Misses Frances Jones, Annet Turner, Elizabeth Valle, Leah
Van Riper, Helen Wood, Gladys Little, Cordelia Wood, Rebecca Boyd, Dorothy
Shapleigh, Messrs. Harry Carr, Conde
Benoist, Clarence King, Benedict Farrar, Edwin Little, Lloyd Wells, Messrs. and Mrs. P. B. Little, S. S. Blackwell, Amadee Reymann, Henry C. Garneau,
Frank P. Hayes, Pierre Garneau, James Franciscus, V. C. Turner, R. W. Shap-leigh, John M. Wood, W. G. Boyd.

Among the passengers sailing on the express steamer Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm of the North German Lloyd line, from New York to Bremen, via Plymouth and Cherbourg, on Dec. 22, were Dr. F. H. Rosebrough, Mr. Rudolph Heckemeier and Mr. Eugene Faber of St. Louis.

Mrs. M. Schoenberg of the Washington Hotel leaves Sunday to spend several weeks with her relatives, the Bernheimers and Schiffs, of Kansas City.

Mrs. James Franklin McCourtney of Webster Park will entertain with a large card party Monday, Dec. 22.

Miss Katherine Graiz entertained at her suburban home Wednesday with a luncheon for some of the younger girls.

Mrs. Anna Hiebinger has taken apartments at the Buckingham for the winter.

Mrs. Jephtha Howe entertained her card club at her home Wednesday.

Mrs. Harry Weber was hostess for her 600 club at her Lindell boulevard home Monday.

Miss Florence Kramer of Forest Park boulevard will depart this week for Kansas City, where she will be the guest of relatives and friends, and where several large affairs have been planned in her honor.

Miss Olive Rae, who has been spending the past two months in New York, is the guest of Miss Isybell Boyle of Philadelphia. Miss Boyle has on several occasions been the guest of St. Louis friends. Miss Rae will not return home until a day or so before Christmas.

Mrs. Robert Lucian Carr, who was the guest of Mrs. Rourke of Kansas City, who gave a large reception in her honor, returned home Monday.

Miss Lucy Norvell, who with her aunt, Mrs. Lucy Mathews is studying in New York at the Art League, will return home next week to spend the holiday season with her parents, Mr.
and Mrs. Saunders Norvell.

RUMBOLD IS FAVORITE FOR ADJUTANT-GENERAL

Battery A Man Is Expected to Succeed DeArmond in State Organization.

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 17.—The Missouri State Military Board will meet here Saturday and some action will be taken in the matter of inducting a successor to Adjutant-General DeArmond.
It seems practically assured at this time that the place will go to Capt. Frank Rumbold of St. Louis, captain of Battery A, which saw service in the Spanish-American War at Porto Rico.

Maj. John D. McNealey of St. Joseph, who can be said on semi-official authority, was slated for the place, having been indorsed by the Board, but he declined to become a candidate.

Other persons besides Capt. Rumbold considered in connection with it are:
Second Lieutenant Chauncey G. Butterfield of Company L, Third Regiment, stationed at Kansas City; Maj. Samuel
W. James of Sedalia, and Capt. W. D.
Stapp of Trenton, an officer of Company
D, Fourth Regiment.

A. Kurtzeborn Jr., STORE ELECTS NEW DIRECTORS

Rice-Stix Company Also Names Advisory Board.

Following the election of a new Board of Directors of the Rice-Stix Dry Goods Co., Henry Rice, William Stix and Benjamin Elsmann, three of the younger members of the former Board, were chosen as an Advisory Board, thus giving the junior members an active voice in the management.

The new Board is composed of David Elsmann, Frederick B. Elsmann, Eugene E. Evans, John B. Hogan, Elias Michael, Aaron S. Rauh, Arthur J. Rice,
B. A. Shelby, William E. Simpson, Ernest W. Stix and Harry S. Wheeler. The Board elected the following officers: Elias Michael, president; David Elsmann, vice-president; John B. Hogan, vice-president; Eugene E. Evans, vice-president; William E. Simpson, treasurer; and Ernest W. Stix, secretary.

Porcupine Not So Stupid.

From the New York World.
Jack and Jill, the pair of porcupines in the Bronx Zoo, are extremely fond of apples, and between them eat a quart or so every day. A big shipment of winter apples from up the State arrived Tuesday, and Keeper Daly thought he'd give the quilly pair a treat. Accordingly, he emptied a small measure, about two quarts, into the inclosure.

Now, Jack, the head of the house, is inclined to be more than a hedgehog, especially at meal times. With the slow waddle peculiar to his kind, he seized a big pipkin and started off.
Then he suddenly remembered that it was dangerous to leave so much fruit behind, and, scattering the apples, he rolled on his back on top of them. At least ten quills pierced as many apples, and, carrying his load, impaled, he scrambled over to a stump.

Club Women Indorsed.

From Ally Sloper's.
Mrs. Brown: Are you, Mr. Brown, in favor of clubs for women?
Mr. Brown: Certainly, my dear club, sandbags or any old thing.

Swallowed the Evidence.

Detectives from Chief Shipley's gambling squad released an alleged handbook maker because he ate the evidence against him, writes a Chicago correspondent of the New York Tribune. The alleged gambler was working over a few strips of thin paper in a saloon in West Madison street, when two detectives ran into the place and arrested him. The man gathered the papers he which he is said to have been entering his bets, rolled them in a ball, and swallowed it. Baffled, the detectives released the man and went back to the police station and reported "no case; evidence eaten."

TO SAVE FISH FROM FREEZING

CRESTON, Ia., Dec. 17.—Deputy Sheriff J. B. Matlack, living near this place, proposes to present the State authorities with 15,000 young bass from three to eight inches long. If the game warden will send men to seine them from a small lake and transfer them to the lakes and streams of the State.

The lake in which the fish now are is a shallow one, which is liable to freeze to the bottom, and to save the supply of fish they must be removed to a larger and deeper body of water.

BRESNAHAN WILL GET $25,000 FOR 3-YEAR CONTRACT

Robison Expects Him to Land Cardinals Well Up in First Division.

WILL MAKE ALL DEALS First Work Will Be to Sign Shortstop and Strong Pitching Staff.

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 17.—Soon after the arrival of Stanley Robison in Cleveland Tuesday, he called Roger Bresnahan by long-distance telephone, summoning him to Cleveland.

They immediately entered into a long conference, as a result of which, it is announced, Bresnahan will manage the St. Louis Cardinals for the next three years under a contract calling for $25,000 for the term, Bresnahan to also act as catcher for the team.

If other deals considered between Robison and Bresnahan are carried into effect, it will result in putting the Cardinals away up in the first division of the National League. This is the digest of stories given out by Robison to the press.

He said that he and Bresnahan had practically agreed on terms some time ago.

Mr. Robison said to the Post-Dispatch correspondent today: "I have always believed that the best way to build up a championship team is first to obtain first-class catchers. A good catcher will make a good pitcher of almost any twirler of ability, but good pitchers never turn out good catchers. The catcher is the pilot of the whole course."

"In Bresnahan I have just the man needed for that position. I had no good catcher last season, but all conceded that I had the best pitching staff in the league, except possibly Chicago. I had the players, but they could not win games without a catcher."

"Now I have a catcher, but I think they can be obtained easier than a man like Bresnahan. Shortstop was another weak point last year. Jap Barbeau, formerly of Cleveland, and with Toledo last season, now of Philadelphia, would be an ideal man to fill that hole. I don't think Murray needs him, and judging from his work with Toledo he would be a big improvement over the players we tried out there last year."

"I hope to get a dozen or so from the surplus material of other clubs, some of whom might be expected to develop into stars under Bresnahan. We don't want McGinnity. He was once a grand one, but his pitching arm has done his best work."

"I am looking to the future and want bright young men, those who will come out into classy men under good handling. I will leave all this, however, to Roger Bresnahan, and he will make all the deals."

"I consider him one of the best men in the business in his position and I am banking him to make good as a manager."

OFFICERS IN THE MARINE CORPS MUST SHOW THEY CAN RUN OR BE PUT ON SHELF

Tests Formulated by Secretary Permit Brief Rests Between Sprints.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—In order to hold their commission, line officers of the United States Marine Corps must be able to run 70 yards. After the first 20 yards the officer undergoing the test that tells whether he is fit to remain in the corps or not, may rest half a minute and then be able to make a run of 50 yards. Then after a minute's rest he must run 200 yards. Unless he is able to go the pace he will be ordered before a medical board with a view to having him examined as to his physical fitness to remain in the service.

The foregoing is the essential part of the rules prepared by Secretary Newberry, and approved by President Roosevelt, for ascertaining the fitness of junior officers of the marines. The running test is made with a view to having the officers adapt themselves to the rule laid down in the Japanese war that the way to advance is to rush forward a few hundred yards, from one cover to another, then rest and then forward again. The Japanese in their field operations abandoned the spectacular old charge in which the column made a bold advance in line.

CONDEMNED SLAYER SAYS HE AVENGED FATHER'S DEATH

Worked Years Gathering Evidence, Then Killed Man to Carry Out Vendetta.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 17.—"I killed Thomas Brady because I believed and now believe he killed my father. I searched everywhere for evidence in the case, worked years in getting information about my father's death, and when I got what I considered positive proof against Brady, I vowed then and there that, if possible, he should pay the death penalty."

This statement was made by Frank Bryant, who is under sentence to hang tomorrow in the County Jail here for the murder of Thomas Brady. Gov. Deneen refused to grant a stay of execution or a commutation of sentence.

SECRETARY WILSON TO HEAD COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

Member of Cabinet Accepts Offer of Presidency of Colorado School.

DENVER, Colo., Dec. 17.—Secretary of Agriculture Wilson in a letter to President Aylesworth of the Colorado College of Agriculture at Fort Collins accepts the offer of the presidency of that institution to succeed President Aylesworth, resigned. The board has decided to elect Mr. Wilson unanimously.

The resignation of Aylesworth will go into effect Jan. 1, but the coming of Secretary Wilson at that time is uncertain, depending upon his reappointment to the cabinet. He wishes the distinction of having served as a cabinet officer longer than any other man, and to do so must serve until Secretary Wilson wishes to spend two years in Colorado for the benefit of his daughter's health. She took a course of dramatic and vocal instruction in Paris and made a successful debut there, but is compelled to rest in account of poor health.

All but Her Papa. From the Houston Post. The young man picked himself painfully up from the front steps and limped away.

"I wish I could get a poke at the duck who said all the world loves a lover," growled he.

French Ministers Think It Is an Improvement. PARIS, Dec. 17.—Old-time copper coins are apparently doomed in France, as a project is on foot, at the instigation of the Minister of Finance, to replace all the small currency by aluminum. M. Caillaux has submitted the draft of a bill to his colleagues in the cabinet for this purpose, and has obtained their consent to bring it before Parliament as a Government measure for the reform of the currency. M. Caillaux had some of the proposed coins struck at the mint and showed them to the other ministers, who considered them a great improvement on the old pieces.

Little Fellow Clung to Missive to Mail Letter to Santa Before He Died. NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—The body of a frail little fellow, apparently 10 years old, lies in a police station here awaiting identification.

He met death last night, under the trucks of a trolley car near the branch postoffice in Third avenue, near Fifty-second street, while on his way to mail a letter to Santa Claus. As he breathed his last under the wheels, his hand stretched forth and the pitiful little letter was seen by the crowd.

A bystander seized it and it was dropped in the postoffice before the boy expired. He ran directly in front of the car, evidently wrapped in thought about his letter. The motorman was held on a technical charge of homicide. No one in the neighborhood knew the child.

BOY ANARCHIST IS MADE GOOD BY KIND TREATMENT

Ran Away From Russian Despotism When Less Than 15 Years Old.

William Ekestein, 19-year-old freshman at the University of Missouri, says that the two best things that ever happened to him were incurring the enmity of the Russian bureaucracy and meeting Judge Willis Brown of the Salt Lake City (Utah) Juvenile Court.

At 14 this boy was a member of a revolutionary society in a high school at Riga, Russia. He was caught with the literature of that society and was compelled to flee his native land, a fugitive from the wrath of the great white czar. He entered the United States, a tramp anarchist, not yet 15 years old. Today he is looked on as the best student in the State University and is educating himself to become a benefactor to the Jewish people huddled in the ghettos of New York and other American cities.

Member of Secret Society.
"My home is at Sasnamachen," he said to a Post-Dispatch reporter, "my father has a contract to furnish all supplies for two big glass factories there. I was in school at Riga and a member of a secret society, the object of which was to teach the ignorant people of Russia that the czar is but a man and not the demi-god they think him, and to teach them that Russia would be infinitely better off if some of the great sums spent on churches where the czar's picture is an object of adoration, were spent on schools to educate the people."

"I had one of the society's books and accidentally handed it to my teacher when he asked for a certain book. That evening, when I returned to my room, I found everything in confusion. Soon detectives appeared and arrested me and three other students in the house. Our fathers put up cash bonds and we ran away from Russia."

Reached New York With $2.
"We walked at night and slept in barns for three weeks before we reached the German frontier. I tramped around Germany for three or four months and then sailed for America. I had $2 when I landed in New York."

"I decided to look up some friends of my father in Salt Lake. I beat my way out there and soon began selling papers. I didn't understand the good of it, but I was at it. I was around poolrooms and saloons."

"I met Judge Brown and he took me under his care. He sent me to Canyon Crest Ranch, the boys' settlement he and others founded near Salt Lake. I was the first mayor."

"After that Judge Brown sent me to the Winona Technical School at Indianapolis, where I studied art and lithography. I was postmaster of the Winona-Lake Boys' Club."

Wants Jews to Go to Farms.
"I am studying farming at the University of Missouri and hope some day to induce poor Jews to forsake city life and go to the farm. I may get money from the estate of an uncle who died recently leaving $200,000. If I do I will try to do good with that."

"I don't like to speak of my story, but am willing to do so in the hope that it may point the way for some other boy to be helped."

It Takes Skill
Regardless of proceeds, to make facsimile letters. Stillwell, 709 Pine street.

GIRL CAUSES ARREST OF A CANDY-LADEN COLONEL

When "Col." J. C. Hackett, wearing the broad-brimmed hat, the frock coat and the snow-white mustache and goatee of a Southern gentleman of the old school, was arrested in Belleville on complaint of Miss Palmer, 13 years old, a search of his pockets brought to light 10 small packages of candy.

The charge made by Miss Palmer was that the "Colonel" winked at her, and tried to force a bag of candy in her hand.

"Col." Hackett has long been a well-known character in Belleville. He is short of stature, but extremely dignified and courtly.

"That candy, sir," he said. "Why, sir, I always carry candy about with me to give to my young friends." He admitted that he had never seen Miss Palmer before.

In Justice Wangelin's court, Wednesday afternoon he pleaded guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct, and paid a fine of $5.

"Col." Hackett gave his address as "Belleville, St. Louis and Racine, Wis."

A Kurtzborn Jr., 603 Olive street, is showing a handsome line of Clocks and Dutch Silver.

DISINHERITED YOUTH BEATS BROTHER; CAN'T PAY $1 FINE

Ward Weaver, cut off with $1 in his father's will, quarreled with his more favored brother, Edward Weaver Jr., and they fought on a Wellston street. Ward Weaver caused his brother's arrest, but Justice Wangelin Thursday discharged Edward Weaver Jr. and assessed $3 costs against Ward Weaver.

"I haven't got the money," Ward told the Justice. "Can't I make affidavit that there was false testimony in this case and escape the costs that way?"

"No, sir," said the justice. "These costs have got to be paid, and it's up to you to pay them."

Ward turned his pockets inside out to show his financial condition and left, refusing to pay the money when he got it.
